Commitment To No-Till Is Commitment To Management

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — Preplanning, testing, scouting, researching, measuring, keeping records, consulting, and communicating are a few of the activities that get heavier emphasis when cropping fields with no-till methods, according to the speakers at the 21st annual Mid-Atlantic Tillage Conference, held Wednesday at the Embers Inn and Convention Center, in Carlisle.

While field skills, a strong knowledge of equipment capabilities and a good sense for soil condition are important to successfully raising crops in any situation, there is more risk associated with the lower-overhead, higher profit potential no-till approach, according to expert and layman speakers to the approximately 250 participants at the conference.

The only way to counter the increased risk of problems that come with using no-till is to understand what those potential problems are for each crop, to have an intimate knowledge of the land being farmed, know the uses and the limits of the tools, and to have a detailed plan.

Every speaker at the conference, attended by crop producers from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, and a few other states, said that while no-till farming improves the organic matter content of the soil, improves is permeability, nutrient stability and moisture retention and can result in

Rodent Control Vital To Poultry Quality Assurance Programs

ANDY ANDREWS

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Rodent control should top the list of priorities for poultry producers when implementing quality assurance programs in their business, according to two producers who spoke about their experiences at the Farm and Home Center on Tuesday.

Dale Snader, Dutch Country Egg Farms, Fredericksburg and Scott Buckwalter, farm manager, Espenshade Farms, Mount Joy emphasized the importance of a strictly managed rodent control program in controlling pathogens — particularly Salmonella enteritidis (SE) and campylobacter — on broiler and layer flocks.

The producers spoke to 130 industry representatives who attended the Food Safety Comes To The Farm meeting.

Dale Snader, who manages a million birds for Dutch Country Egg Farms, said he has become a "converted believer" in the importance of rodent control.

"I once thought that a chicken house without mice is like a chicken without eggs," he admitted, thinking that mice were just a natural problem that all poultry producers somehow simply put up with. But he soon realized that SE and mice "go hand in hand."

Lancaster Chamber Ag Position Opens

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Jay Howes, the agricultural director of the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce, has been named to a vacancy in the Pennsylvania House Ag and Rural Affairs committee staff as a research anaylyst. Howes made the announcement at the chamber's board meeting Wednesday morning.

"This opportunity arose to be involved as an advisor to help to develop legislation that is sympathic to the needs of the farmers," Howes said. "A great deal of my work with the chamber has been centered around monitoring the development of legislation in nutrient management and water use laws. Because I was a representative of the chamber, my voice in presenting the farmer's side of things was much more effective. It was this part of my job with the chamber I enjoyed the most, and now I have the opportunity to do this in the state legislature as the

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer Market

Wednesday, Dec. 14, 1994

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was tapering, but generally remained sufficient to keep current offerings balanced to closely cleared. Live supplies were moderate; weights were desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were curtailed again, but remained very heavy in total. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 50 to 61 cents. Trade sentiment was fully steady. In the parts complex, bone-in breasts were well cleared to short. Wings were only adequate at best. Other items were generally noted as adequate for a lighter buying interest.

"This machine will pay for itself in a year"
—Tom Krall

Tom Krall, a dairy farmer in Lebanon County, PA, installed a hammer mill from Automatic Farm Systems last spring. He feels it's been a very wise move financially.

"I had all my feed delivered, other than silage. Now I'll buy corn and barley cheaper, at harvest, and save on hauling and grinding. My initial cost, operating cost, and maintenance cost are all low. I expect this machine will pay for itself in a year."

"It's a pretty handy machine. It's all automatic, so it doesn't create any extra work. And it's not dusty like a roller mill because it's all enclosed."

Give us a call to learn how an AFS hammer mill will work on your dairy operation.

LEBANON® EXTRA
Granulated Starter Fertilizer

"THERE'S MORE TO IT THAN JUST NPK"

For over 47 years, farmers throughout the Mid-Atlantic Area from New York to Virginia have produced millions of dollars of crops using Lebanon Extra fertilizer.

Lebanon Extra is an ammoniated, homogenous. granular NPK fertilizer. With the increased emphasis on using less and precise applications of plant food, Lebanon Extra provides the nutrient sources that you can depend on, and not just NPK but also secondary and six micro-nutrients. The nutrient integrity of Lebanon Extra is superior to bulk blend fertilizer products. When using row applications or banding accurate amounts of plant food it can be important to use a safe, quality, uniform grade product. If you are using a blend with MAP compare the value of Lebanon Extra.

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC — THIS WEEK WITH

DECEMBER 19-25, 1994

WINTER SOLSTICE, DECEMBER 21.

RUDOLPH

Most youngsters think Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer has been around forever . just like Santa Claus Actually, Rudolph was "born" in 1939 in a Chicago department store! The brainchild of Robert May, an ad copywriter for Montgomery Ward, Rudolph started out as an illustrated poem, 2.4 million copies were handed out nationwide that year In 1947, Johnny Marks set the poem to music, but no one wanted to record it Then in 1949, Gene Autry recorded the song, which zoomed to the top of the charts Three hundred different recordings and eighty million records later, Autry's "Rudolph" is second only to Bing Crosby's "White Christmas" as the best-selling record of all time

Rudolph the red-nosed reindeer, you'll go down in history!

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Include the recipe with any homemade goodies you give as gifts.

EARTHWISE

Here's a last-minute gift idea. Give them daylight on a dark winter day! The new super-compact fluorescent light bulbs reduce energy use by 75%, they're smaller, so they fit in most household lamps, and they now come in soft or bright light. The bright light, unlike most fluorescents, delivers more of the full spectrum of light — allowing you great energy savings without that ghostly blue glow. They're available from Seventh Generation catalog at 1-800-456-1177.

A Cash Cow

The farmer buys retail and sells wholesale. And because of this, many variations of this tongue-in-cheek story have been told. But here's our version of how a dairy farmer priced his high-producing milk cow based on common marketing methodology. To Check Tire Pressure

Proper inflation of tractor tires may save the operator money, according to research at Ohio State University.

According to Dr. Randall K. Wood at Ohio State, the revisions of the recommended pressures for radial ply tires made in 1992 are saving operators fuel and time in the field. Wood says that the new lower pressure will create a slight bulge in the tire that makes them look underinflated. He says farmers need to get over the perception that the new look is not good for the tire or for traction.

In general, research has shown that the correct radial tire pressure can save 10 to 20 percent of the cost of operating a tractor. In one study, the new lower pressure saved 36 gallons of fuel and 3.6 hours in a field on a 280-acre trail in Ohio.

In the study, 18.4R46 dual radial tires were inflated to the new pressure recommendation of 8 psi compared to 14 psi recommended earlier.

For the correct inflation of any tire, check with the tire manufacturer. The correct pressure is determined by the tractor's load. In addition to saving fuel and time, the lower pressure will extend the useful life of the tire and reduce the amount of soil compaction.

To Prepare For Regulations

According to Dr. Gerald Cole, University of Delaware resource economist, increasing government regulation will have profound impact on American agriculture through the rest of the decade.

According to Cole, small family farms will have the hardest time surviving these regulations. New and expanded regulations including the Costal Zone Act, nutrient management, food safety, pesticide application records, and labor regulations are examples of increased record keeping requirements being placed on farmers.

These record keeping requirements are likely to make it harder for small farm operations to survive.

Cole states we often hear politicians speak with great fondness about preserving smaller family farms. However, many times new laws that are passed with the intent to help agriculture actually do not because many small producers cannot keep up with the additional cost of meeting regulations.

These regulations are likely to hasten the demise of small family farms. To survive, farmers need to monitor proposed laws, regulations, and local ordinances for cost/benefit relationships.

They need to look at using computers to increase efficiencies in record keeping and managing the farm. Farmers will need to evaluate work assignments and priorities. To survive, family farmers will need to adopt best management practices and document their implementation.

Use of consultants will become another way small farms will deal with regulations. Now is the time to start exploring ways to adopt procedures to handle additional record keeping requirements.

To Use Wood Ashes Correctly

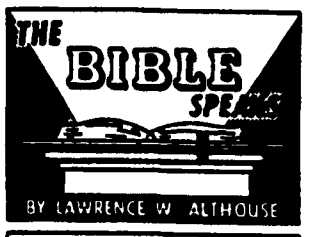
With the increase in the use of wood stoves for home heating, questions have arisen concerning the feasibility of applying wood ashes to the home garden.

The nutrient content of wood ashes is variable, but in general they contain approximately 2 percent phosphate, 5 percent potash and 0 percent nitrogen, according to Dr. Stephen Donohue, Virginia Tech.

Wood ashes maybe applied to the home garden only if the soil pH is less than 7.0. Suggested rates are 10 to 20 pounds of wood ashes per 1,000 square feet per year. A 10-quart bucket, filled within two inches of the top, will contain about five pounds of wood ashes.

The soil should be tested every two years to check for changes in pH, phosphorus, and potassium levels to determine if additional wood ash applications should be made. Coal ashes are not recommended for use in the garden because of high sulfur content that maybe present in the residue. This sulfur breaks down in the soil and may rapidly lower pH below plant tolerance levels.

Feather Prof's Footnote: "Some succeed because they are destined to, most succeed because they are determined to."



LISTENING TO YOUR ANGEL
December 18, 1994

Background Scripture:
Matthew 1
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 9:2-7

Joseph is one of the also-rans of the Bible. He is remembered simply as "the husband of Mary" the mother of Jesus. Joseph was in familial effect, but not in fact, the father of Jesus.

I would not quarrel with the attention that Mary gets as the mother of Jesus. Still, it seems to me that Joseph's role and contribution are too frequently overlooked by Christians. Joseph played a part in this drama out of proportion to the number of verses with which he is mentioned in the gospels.

First, of all, consider what might have happened if Joseph had reacted to Mary's pregnancy the way most of us would today. They were betrothed, a relationship so formal and binding that the betrothal could be dissolved only by divorce. He could have done that quietly by handing her a writ in the presence of two witnesses—actually, that was what he initially had decided—or he could have taken her to court publicly. The facts were clear, it seemed: Mary was pregnant without the benefit of marriage and therefore it was a matter of extreme humiliation to Joseph.

JUST & COMPASSIONATE

But Matthew tells us that Joseph was "a just man and unwilling to put her to shame..." (1:19). He was a fair man and a compassionate man. Maybe that doesn't seem like such a big deal, but I think it is. When I was a boy it seemed that most of the people I knew were basically fair and compassionate. They did not intend to cause harm or pain to other people.

I'm not sure that is the popular mood any longer. There is a tide of anger and punitive vindictiveness that seems to be sweeping our country. When people perceive that someone or something is wrong, there is a rush to identify who is responsible and make someone pay for it, legally or otherwise. People are no longer so reluctant to cause pain or suffering if they feel it is their right or privilege to do so. In his excellent book, The Crime of Punishment, Dr. Karl Menninger quotes Nietzache: "Distrust all in whom the impulse to punish is strong." He also quotes our Lord, "Let him who is without sin among you be the first to throw a stone at her" (John 8:7).

By all rights, Joseph could have decided to make Mary pay for this seeming indignity. But Joseph was not that kind of person. No matter how badly it seemed Mary had stained his honor, he did not feel impelled to hurt her in retaliation.

ONLY A DREAM?

Secondly, think how the story might have turned out if Joseph had refused to listen to his angel. After all, it was "only a dream,"—why should he pay any attention to it? And, even if the messenger in the dream was really "an angel of the Lord," where is it written that a person must listen to an angel? It is one thing for an angel to say, "...do not fear to take Mary your wife, for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Spirit" (1:20). One would possibly expect that of an angel. But Joseph was a man, living in an actual human society that believed dishonor must be avoided at all costs.

So, Joseph was not only a just man and compassionate, he was also a man willing to listen to an angel and hear in the angel's admonition the voice of God.

You are probably thinking that the story doesn't apply to you, since you never hear anything from God's angels. Joseph could also have assumed that, too: It was only a dream!

Maybe the problem is not that God doesn't send us angels (messengers), but that He does and we don't listen for them or to them.

Chinese Educators Conclude North American Study

DOYLESTOWN (Bucks Co.) — Six visiting educators from North West China concluded a three week United States study tour earlier this month by visiting the agricultural regions of Lancaster County.

The educators, who represented six different colleges in China, were hosted by Delaware Valley College of Science and Agriculture. Visits to New Mexico State University and two colleges in Wisconsin preceded this leg of their tour. The international exchange was coordinated for the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations.

Their visit to the Lancaster County area continued the mission of Delaware Valley College to incorporate the "science with practice" approach to learning, which had been emphasized during meetings with campus faculty, administrators, and trustees during the week. It included a tour of the Hybrid Pork Center of Denver, PA where new techniques in pork breeding, growth and development are practiced, the state-of-the-art beef finishing facility of Gene and Daniel Martin in Denver, PA and the New Holland Agricultural Machinery Plant.

The highlight of the day was a luncheon meeting with members of the Pennsylvania Agribusiness community, who spoke about establishing trade and diplomatic relations between the two agricultural powers. The delegates were then presented with certificates from Delaware Valley College in recognition of their tireless effort on behalf of their nation.

The departure of the Chinese educators ended the second tour of visiting international delegates at Delaware Valley College in recent months. In October, a delegation of Ukrainian business professionals were welcomed for seminars on changes in international business.

For more information on Delaware Valley College's international program focus contact Dr. John Avery, chairman, Agribusiness Department at (215) 345-1500 extension 2328.

12 Days Of Christmas On Exotic Bird Farm

MIRIAM WERT
Juniata Co. Correspondent

REEDS GAP, (Juniata Co.) — Don and Roseann Woodward can show you a partridge (but not in a pear tree!), two turtle doves; three French hens; (but no calling birds whatever they are), and no swans-a-swimming, but their total of 70 species more than make up for those discrepancies in the 12 days of Christmas gifts.

The Woodwards play a cassette tape of many types of birds singing and calling as the tour is made of their bird area, making it the perfect accompaniment for the sight of beautiful and unusual birds.

Some people have a hobby of crafts or flea market sales, so that the sale of their items pays the expenses of their hobby. So it is with the Woodwards. Their hobby started with collecting rare and exotic pheasants and doves which they bred, and selling the offspring to help pay the expense of keeping the collection.

The Woodwards fell in love with other birds — they now own 70 species of rare or fancy breeds of small pigeons, doves, ducks, pheasants, quail, partridges, peacocks, chickens, and other birds. With all of these, they keep pairs which then mate and lay eggs so that their offspring are sold to help pay for the expense of feeding and housing the collection. Most are sold to other collectors/breeders, but some are sold to two commercial dealers in California and West Virginia who, in turn, sell birds to the public.

Don and Roseann's collection totals 70 species of exotic birds. Their collection is of a good size now, but larger in the summer, when they have 300-400 birds.

The Woodwards have a friend in Lewistown who also has a collection, and they go together to bird shows, meetings, and bird "flea markets" in other states. Both developed, their own formula for feed pellets. A feed mill in Reedsville, makes the pellets according to their selected ratio. The Woodwards believe this is more economical than buying brand names because they use such a large volume.

Don and his Lewistown friend went to Canada last year and purchased some pheasants, of which there are only 10 in captivity.

To buy and sell endangered species of pheasants, a permit must be obtained from the state and sales must be reported. Permit cost is $25 a year, but the time involved is the worst part. Photos must be sent in to show where the birds are to be housed and the size to be provided, etc. Then the state determines whether or not they will grant the license, which can be revoked if eligibility is not proven each year. A permit is also needed to raise quail and ringneck pheasants, and a migratory permit is needed to raise ducks.

Long, one-story buildings with separate small rooms for different species are provided. Many rooms have evergreen trees that will be replaced after Christmas. Dealers will provide leftover fresh trees that have not been in heated homes for the birds. One room contains a live rhododendron bush. The Woodwards must be selective in the types of plants or trees as certain types could be poisonous to a specific breed of bird. Some breeds need heat during winter, and some need cold.

The Woodwards have a book filled with information, containing photos of beautiful pheasants, titled "Pheasants of the World - Their Breeding and Management" by Keith Howman. Colored photos in the book are breathtaking. One of the Temminch Tragopan shows the brilliant blue and red bib that the male displays during the mating season, after which the bib rolls up out of sight. He is beautiful under normal circumstances but especially so with the bib displayed. The Woodwards have two pairs of this species.

higher cash income per acre because of lower production costs, if it isn't done correctly a practitioner can be ruined quickly.

And one of the most repeated reasons for no-till failure was soil compaction, followed by poor planning and poor pre-no-till soil nutrient preparation.

Overall, the conference was designed with a morning and afternoon general session featuring a total of three speakers.

Just after the morning general session's two speakers finished, and before lunch, three shorter duration discussions were held in side breakout rooms, or conference-goers could visit commercial exhibits by seed, equipment and chemical and technical support businesses.

Again after lunch, three breakout sessions were held, followed by the afternoon general session.

During the morning general session, William Rohrs, coordinator of the Conservation Action Project in the Maumee Valley Resource Conservation and Development Area SCS, in Defiance, Ohio, was the speaker.

Rohrs provided 30 different tips or observations that can help with successful no-tilling.

According to Rohrs, there are several reasons for the use of no-till and in Ohio, some of the reason was a problem with nitrogen and phosphorus getting into the Maumee River, which flows right through main population centers, while others have gone to no-till to try to farm more competitively.

Rohrs prefaced his remarks with the statement that he is not an expert, just experienced in some aspects that seem to be necessary for success.

Among his recommendations were to choose no-till for the "right reasons."

He said to choose it to improve soil structure, increase water penetration, reduce soil erosion and to improve the economics of the farming operation, but not to choose to try it because it is easier.

He also said that mapping is important, and by that he stressed planning, at least six months ahead.

The other morning speaker was Dr. Richard Fawcett, and environmental specialist with the Farm Journal, in Huxley, Iowa. While his overview was the promotion of the use of no-till to reduce the contamination of water supplies, he also emphasized the need to plan properly.

Fawcett, who directed his talks more toward the chemical pesticides, especially herbicides such as atrazine, said that all real-condition studies of the effect of no-till practices and strip filters show a benefit to the control of chemicals from farms.

According to Fawcett, who had previously taught at the University of Iowa, there are studies that show the opposite is true — that no-till fields with good soil cover actually promote the loss of chemicals applied to fields.

However, Fawcett said that those studies are the result of artificial conditions which simulate rainfall on plots of ground soon after chemical application. In those studies, simulated rainfall is such as would occur in rare circumstances, approximating heavy, sustained downpours as might occur with severe storms.

Under those conditions, he explained that the deluge of water is too heavy and fast for it to soak into to the soil, and carry any chemical dissolved with it into the plant-active zone.

(Turn to Page A22)

From the left, farmer-panelists Joseph Hottel, Jere Hissong Sr., Lyle Tabb, and panel moderator Lynn Hoffman discuss pratical aspects of nutrient management and farming during the Mid-Atlantic Conservation Tillage Conference. The panelists represented a variety of nutrient uses, such as treated municipal sludge, composted dairy manure being spread as a soil amendment, and liquid application. Other speakers discussed various aspects of successful conservation tillage farming.

other four years ago was a pair of them. This bird is very quiet, and the male ate grapes from Roseann's hand. Breeders have to be careful that they do not domesticate the birds and get so attached that the birds get the "human imprint" and will not breed.

The Reeves pheasant was a beautiful streak of color and hard to photograph. It has the longest tail of any pheasant. One of the interesting collection of rare hens was the one named Mille Fleur (French for "one thousand flowers"). Also in the collection was an English Crele and a Silver Sebright.

Both Don and Roseann work away from home full-time, and so they must spend many of their off hours taking care of the birds. They expressed gratitude to Don's parents, John and Martha Woodward, for their help. Martha washes the waterers and helps with other cleaning and health necessities.

Don speaks with pride about his parents' farm to which his and Roseanne's home is adjacent. His father, John, is at least the fourth generation of Woodwards on the farm, where they remain semi-active. Last year they raised 35 head of Holstein that were sent overseas for breeding purposes. Years ago, their farm, an adjacent farm, and Don and Roseann's place were all one tract of about 300 acres. John and Martha have 100 acres.

Don worked on the dairy farm with his dad while living at home. Don also worked for some years after he and Roseann were married and moved into their home, which is at least 150 years old. Years ago, the Reeds Gap Post Office was in the home. A typical country store is next-door, and that ground was also a part of the original tract. This is in the very small village of Reeds Gap, about 15 miles south of Mifflin via Route 35.

When taking photos of Don and Roseann at their sign, newly erected this past summer, Don pointed out with pride that the stones at the base were all from his father's farm. He was also proud of the fact that the sign was made by a friend of his who is a carpenter and an artist but does not make signs for a living.

Instead, the water flows off the test surface, carrying any chemical with it.

Real condition research has consistently demonstrated that water soluable herbicides, insecticides and fungicides actually leaves tilled ground much slower and in much reduced levels.

The real-world data did show that under conditions of a very heavy downpour occuring immediately after an application of pesticide did show a greater loss than in a ridge-tilled field, that was the rare expection.

On the other hand, the average losses over time were much higher for tilled soils than for no-tilled soils.

Overall and over time, the total amount of pesticide flow from applied fields was at least 50 percent less for no-till than conventional till.

His point in illustrating the abilities of soils developed under a no-till system to retard or prevent the loss of chemicals into water stores was to convince the audience that farmers are being faced with pressure from environmental purists and that through education, coordination and cooperation, using no-till voluntarily can help prevent unecessary and burdensome regulation.

Of the three breakout groups offered to conference participants, Fawcett continued discussing the changes in chemicals used for pesticides, and some of the labeling problems currently being encountered with the federal registration of chemicals.

Many new chemicals are being put out on the market that are to be used in low amounts, that break down quickly, are less water soluable, adhere better to soils, and are less toxic to animal life, Fawcett said.

According to Fawcett and others, the use of herbicides, pre- and/or post-emergence is necessary to successful no-tilling, but with the right practices, the qualities of no-till soils, the reduced levels of chemicals, and good management, there is actually less use of chemicals with no-till than traditional farming.

Afternoon speaker John Haldeman, the owner of College Corner Implement Co., in West College Corner, Ind., talked about equipment used in no-till practices, especially the use of coulters and deep till devices.

Haldeman said he sells equipment to many people who no-till and he has experience with the practical aspects of the effects of equipment.

For example, he said that his preference for a 13-wave, 1-inch blade coulter in planting because it doesn't pack the sidewalls, and burries the seed under a layer of soil, instead of leaving it exposed in a narrowly-cut furrow.

With other thin blade wave designs, he said that the walls can become packed and actually expose seed to air if the soil dries out substantially after planting.

General recommendations were to consider what functions an operator expects to do and then to get the equipment that is designed to do that job.

For distributing ground cover at harvest, he said that there are some modifications that all should be using on combines that can help prevent spot buildup of residue, or the creation of windrows, which can cause damp, wet cold areas and at the same time not really be helping to build the organic level of the field.

The conference is a joint venture between the cooperative extension system of Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Eastern Milk, MMI Pursue Unification

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — The boards of Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative, Syracuse, NY, and Milk Marketing Inc. (MMI), Strongsville, Ohio, have agreed to pursue unification talks.

Together the two dairy cooperatives would represent nearly 9,000 family farms in 11 Midwest and Northeast states. Jointly they would market nearly 7 billion pounds of milk annually.

Eastern Milk President Lewis Gardner and MMI President Herman Bruoaker said in a joint statement that the two cooperatives were "financially sound, philosophically aligned, and the time is right for these kinds of discussions."

"We are looking to the future welfare of our dairy farm families and we think that together, we may be able to better meet the future needs of our members and the marketplace," they said.

A series of recent combinations among dairy cooperatives across the United States point to the realization that dairy farmers cannot afford to compete against each other for markets, they said.

Gardner noted: "We as dairy farmers must evaluate our strengths and resources in order to position ourselves to be as competitive as possible in the dramatically changing marketplace."

Both presidents said there would be no additional information about the talks at this time.

Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative operates in the northeastern U.S. and has 3,200 member farm families in the following states: Pennsylvania, New York, Vermont, Maryland, Delaware and Massachusetts. In fiscal year 1994 Eastern marketed nearly 2 billion pounds of milk and generated more than $275 million in milk sales and other revenues.

Milk Marketing Inc. is the nation's 7th largest dairy cooperative and the 73rd largest U.S. food company manufacturing cheese. MMI is owned by 5,700 dairy farm families in Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, New York and West Virginia.

Cull For Improvement

LARRY SPECHT
PSU Dairy Science Extension

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Data from the 1993-94 Pa.DHIA test year show that almost a third of the cows in tested herds were replaced last year.

Reasons for removal can be divided into two categories; voluntary culling, and involuntary culling.

The total ratio of involuntary culling to voluntary removals was 80.9 percent-to-19.1 percent, or 4:1.

Top managers strive for a ratio of 1:1.

Ag Position Opens

major emphasis of my work."

Howes is the first agricultural directior in the chamber and has had a great impact on what the position in Lancaster has become. But Howes does not equate himself and the position as one and the same. "The position will go on even if I am not here," Howes said.

With agriculture as a distinct part of the business community that is representative by the chamber, several things have happened. First, agriculture has begun to look at itself as a business. "You can not look at farming as a way of life until you look at farming as a way of business," Howes said. "You cannot enjoy farm life if you can't afford to farm."

Another outcome of this inclusion of agriculture in the Lancaster Chamber of Commerice has been the opportunity to present the farmer's viewpoint to other members of the chamber. It is news to a lot of business people that because of its diversity, farm subsidies have very little effect on the local farm economy. And a new rapport among chamber members has developed because farms and business share many of the same problems.

Both the farm financial seminars and the farm/city activities at Kreider Farms has also been very successful.

John Barley, Lancaster County representative, was instrumental in placing Howes in the staff position in Harrisburg. Barley said Howes' organizational experience, practical farm experience, and his research experience as part of the chamber position made him ideally suited for the staff position.

Specifically, Howes will have the responsibility to research the technical background as a new piece of legislation is developed. "It's important to have someone who knows ag to be able to advise at this point in the process," Barley said.

Meanwhile back in Lancaster, the search is on for a new "Lancaster Secretary of Agriculture". It is the hope of the ag committee, chaired by Ken Meck, that a new person can be named in a very short time.

"This position in the chamber gives us a way to emphasize agriculture as a business with problems just like any other business," Meck said. "And it helps to show the importance of agriculture to the other segments of the economy. This elevation of agriculture into the business community has been quite beneficial to everyone, and we hope a new person can be named in a very short time so that this good effort between agriculture and the chamber can continue without much interruption."

Solid Gold Decisions Are Well Considered

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

EMLENTON (Clarion Co.) — Attendants to the 1993 and 1994 Pa. Holstein Association fall championship shows held in Harrisburg should remember seeing Mike and Cindy Weimer at the halter of their 6-year-old, Excellent 94-point, Solid Gold Rotate Easter cow.

The cow was named the total performance winner two years running and the Weimers had their family picture taken with the cow. In the Large Arena of the state Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg, the Weimer family stood together, smiling broadly, with their cow in front of the All-American banner, with photographers' cameras klicking and flashes popping lights.

Easter may have a chance of winning the award three times if she calves well when due in May, and stays healthy and produces well, according to Mike. The total performance award recognizes both dairy production and animal configurations.

The Weimers farm about 250 acres of rolling hills near Emlenton in the western tip of Clarion County, near busy I80, the interstate highway that cuts an east-to-west slash across the middle of the county. The farm name is Solid Gold.

The farm's herd consists of about 76 milking cows and the most recent rolling herd average showed average 305-day production of 25,911 pounds of milk, 943 pounds fat, and 826 pounds of protein.

The Solid Gold herd is treated like many other top-producing herds — the cows are fed a totally mixed, balanced ration, the milking herd is kept in a free-stall setup with clay-based stall beds topped with wood shavings.

Calves are kept separate, heifers are grouped, dry cows have their own program, consultants are used, and concern for the breeding program is given high priority.

But they, like many others with family farms, are not strictly "full-time" farmers.

Cindy works as a communications specialist for Mid East United Dairy Industry Association and also keeps the farm's records and keeps all the breed registry paperwork. Mike said she works very hard on the farm and with her job, and has their two children also; Sarah, 5, and Spencer, 3.

Mike, 37, also works off the farm, auctioneering, and currently he is kept busy doing most of the selection for the state Holstein Association commission sale.

But in the meantime, the farm is a full-time operation, and has to be kept going and managed, and the cows have to get milked three times per day.

Up until a month ago, Mike had only employed one man as his herdsman. He hired a second full-time worker for the farm because of his sale-selection responsibilities.

"I'm going to be gone at least 20 days this month, and (20) the next, so I have to have this kind of labor to keep this going."

The Weimers are family farmers, and they share the decisions and choices that many one-family farms are being forced to make, especially in recent years with the changes in the dairy industry, and international trade.

Mike said that for him, the choices that many were taking, or seemed to consider, were not necessarily appealing to him.

So he said he began searching for information he needed.

About two to three years ago, Mike said he started making changes at the farm. He attended dairy day meetings and read articles on what others are doing in the industry.

He has a college degree, works in the industry and visits a lot of farmers, so he had the opportunity to see what others were doing, and all interests in the dairy industry seemed to be repeating the same message: get bigger or die.

Mike said his doesn't agree that dairying has to be a job for a full-time owner/operator, to the exclusion of other vocations. And he isn't alone. Many see farming as a main revenue source to help pay for the land, but continue to work off-farm to provide for more cash flow and living requirements.

Either way, each farm operation is as different as the owner and operator, and while some management considerations may be the same across the board, each individual has to decide how farming can be successful for him.

For Mike, it was a matter of figuring out a way of incorporating his love of dairying with his other, related vocational abilities and assets.

He said that if he were to expand his milk-production to the size required by some economic equations for return on investment, he would probably have to give up doing off-farm work; that is, if a bank would loan the amount needed to do a large expansion.

At the time he was considering changes, he was milking about 50 cows. He then had a herd dispersal and sold almost all of the herd, except for a couple of older cows and some heifers.

He reinvested money into remodeling a barn and adding freestalls.

Shortly after going to 70 cows in 1993, he talked with a county extension agent, who helped him work out financial projections, and it seemed that milking three-times per day would work well to boost cash flow. And it has, Mike said.

But in the meantime, there were still some things missing in controlling the business, he said.

Soon after expanding the herd, Mike said he did attend a dairy expansion seminar, primarily, he said, "Just to keep open minded about it."

Then he heard about the Dairy MAP (Management and Profitability) program, he said, and attended the basic course.

Weimer couldn't find what he needed, he said, until he attended the first Dairy-MAP program.

The combination of the workshop speakers and the discussions with peers and homework appealed to Weimer, he said, because it allowed him to see that he could be the type of farmer he wanted to be; not like someone down the valley, or in another state, but Mike Weimer.

He and Cindy put together a mission statement for the first time; he started using his DHIA records for herd management of health and reproduction and dairy production; he started monthly meetings with his herdsman; ...

"A lot of things they bring up (at Dairy MAP workshops), you know that you should have been doing them," Weimer said. "I went to college, and several of the guys (also at the workshop) went to college and several things you knew (already). But the program helped trigger (me) to do it."

Mike and Cindy Weimer, with children Sarah, and Spencer, stand at the halter of their 6-year-old, Excellent 94-point, Solid Gold Rotate Easter cow, after she was named the total performance winner at the 1993 Pa. Holstein Association fall championship show.

For example, sitting down with the herdsman on a regular basis was not something he was used to doing.

"There's so many routine things during the day (farming), that it takes effort to stop and have a meeting," he said. But now he does it.

"I now take time and get information from everyone involved in the farm, when making a high percentage of decisions. I have one exceptionally good herdsman, and I sit down with him once in a while and go over ideas, and do problem solving.

"I did start using the (DHIA) records more after MAP," Mike said. "Primarily, I used it before for merchandising."

The Weimers have been involved with merchandising cattle and include that as an aspect of the family business that also requires management.

Mike has been involved with judging cattle since growing up on a family farm in Emmitsburg, Md. When in college at the University of Maryland, he was on the cattle judging team in college and went to Madison, Wis., for the national contest, his team finishing a respectable fourth.

This past year, the Weimers have sent five bulls to stud. Mike regularly sells embryos to buyers in France and Holland.

This year, one of the cows he bred and developed he sold for $23,000 to Golden Oaks Farm, in Illinois, during the Genetic Advantage Sale, held in New York. At this year's Eastern National Holstein Sale, he sold a 93-point Mark daugther for $6,900.

These things didn't just happen. These things were hoped for, planned for, and worked for.

Mike said he uses a dairy management program, but prior to attending Dairy MAP, he didn't really update the program with DHIA-created data.

Now he does.

"I didn't used to keep them updated, but now I do," Mike said. "It's easier (now) for my vet to go over. We have a cow search through Holstein Association we were primarily using it for management, but it's easier for me to go through my DHIA records, so we keep both of those up-to-date now."

His DHIA technician is part of the team. His hired men are part of the team, his veterinarian, etc. Altogether, they are creating the entity known as Solid Gold Farm.

This past year, he and his herdsman attended a second, advanced workshop offered through the Dairy MAP program. This program was on feeds and nutrition.

On Tuesday, he said he was going to hold a meeting with his herdsman and new employee to figure out a realignment of responsibilities. Mike hired someone to fill in for a milking, so the three could have time to talk and work out a strategy.

"We're going to go over responsibilities. I have a list of notes I made up last night. I want to have monthly meetings, get copies of somatic cell reports so we can talk about problem cows, talk about things we think need done.

"I'm asking that the three of us are going to come up with a one-year goal, a five-year goal, and that would be for things with the herd and things with the crops."

The Dairy MAP program was not a magic formula for success nor a panacea for farm economic health, according to Weimer, but he said it made him realize what he had to do to get better control of his direction.

"In no way did I use everything (learned about management) I should have, but everything I've used has been good.

"I guess (my) main goal is to get better, not bigger. When into this merchandising, there is a lot of opportunity, if you can do a good job with the herd."

Editor's Note: Every year several hundred Pennsylvania dairy farms go out of business. Changing times make incorporating sound management technologies important for the efficiency and profitability of dairy farm businesses.

In an effort to respond to the need for up-to-date business management information, many dairy industry officials and organizations have turned to Penn State's Dairy-MAP program as one way to help stabilize and reverse the downward trend of the dairy industry in Pennsylvania.

This is the last of three farm interviews with family members who have participated in one of the Dairy-MAP seminars held across the state last year.

Cull For Improvement

Fewer losses from reproductive and other health problems would permit more animals to be removed for low production, thus upgrading the herd's genetics. It would also create an opportunity for increased cash flow, because more animals could be sold for dairy purposes.

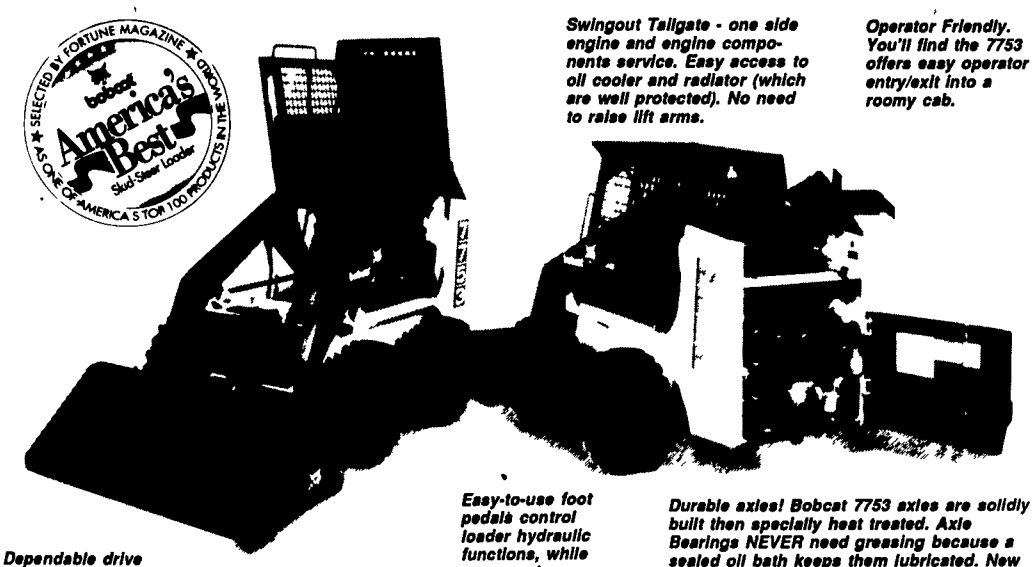
Bobcat 7753 Long-Wheelbase Skid-Steer Loader

It's What's Inside That Counts!



Swingout Tailgate - one side engine and engine components service. Easy access to oil cooler and radiator (which are well protected). No need to raise lift arms.
Operator Friendly. You'll find the 7753 offers easy operator entry/exit into a roomy cab.
Dependable drive chains that NEVER need adjusting. The "bow tie" design uses prestressed, heavy-duty drive chains in two short continuous loops per side. That means long-life in the most rugged use and NO periodic, time-consuming drive chain adjustments.
Easy-to-use foot pedals control loader hydraulic functions, while two steering levers allow precise maneuverability.
Durable axles! Bobcat 7753 axles are solidly built then specially heat treated. Axle Bearings NEVER need greasing because a sealed oil bath keeps them lubricated. New axle hub design protects axle seal from damage from wire or twine. Hub is easily removed if service is required.

Experience America's Best.

Melroe company has over 30 years of skid-steer loader experience – longer than anyone else. That's one of the reasons Fortune Magazine has twice recognized the Bobcat loader as one of the 100 products "America Builds Best."

Reliable Components.

Other than a few daily checks and fills, you can rely on the PERFORMANCE of the 7753 Bobcat. It has been designed and built with durability and low maintenance in mind.

Great Serviceability!

The Bobcat 7753 has been designed to be serviced quickly. For example, there's single-side access to the transversely-mounted engine, a lift-out oil cooler for easy cleaning and a tip-up cab to expose hydraulic and hydrostatic compon- entry. For repairs, the exclusive BOSS® System can help quickly diagnose system problems. These features, along with a factory-trained service technicians and "top-shelf" parts availability, mean your loader can be back on the job in no time.

TOTAL HAND CONTROL!

Dealer-Installed Option!

- Easy Wrist-Action Control.
- Push-Button Auxiliary Hydraulics For Total Hand Control. (Available only on 50 Series loaders. 40 Series loaders utilize foot pedal to activate auxiliary hydraulics.)
- Easy-Grip Handle.

Rodent Control Vital

Industry representatives, together with careful research undertaken by USDA and extension, have shown a strong link between SE positive tests on flocks and SE in rodents.

Snader discovered that, using the rodent index established by USDA-APHIS, Dutch Country once had a severe infestation, with 25 mice or more captured per house. This high infestation was battled effectively using a closed bait system with systematically changed bait material.

Within a short time, the rodent index indicated the problem was under control, from 25 mice down to five mice per house in a week.

"We have made a difference in controlling mice in the layer houses," said Snader.

The critical part of rodent control is making sure the traps are set properly, inspecting the baits and making the count on a scheduled basis, and changing the bait active ingredients every three to four weeks.

Snader emphasized the importance of "staying after" mice.

"We have taken one giant step in controlling SE. It's possible. It works."

Scott Buckwalter, manager of Espenshade Farms, told the producers it's important to keep the rodent index "up to snuff." Also, traps should be placed anywhere there is a possible mice infestation, including under the roof.

Buckwalter said that, in his experience, Espenshade keeps a careful check of the index rating to keep rodent control, and thus disease, in check on the farm.

Dr. David Henzler, epidemiologist with the SE Pilot Project/USDA-APHIS-VS operations center, worked on a program involving more than a hundred volunteer farms and the effectiveness of rodent indexing.

What they studied was the effectiveness of rodent indexing and how several different rodent control programs compare to each other.

What researchers know is that mice are a significant source and amplifier of SE in successive flocks, even after thorough cleaning and disinfection (C&D) of the houses.

In the rodent index category, less than 10 mice per week per house in the traps indicates a low infestation, moderate infestation equals 11-25 mice per week per house, and 26 mice or more per house per week indicates high infestation.

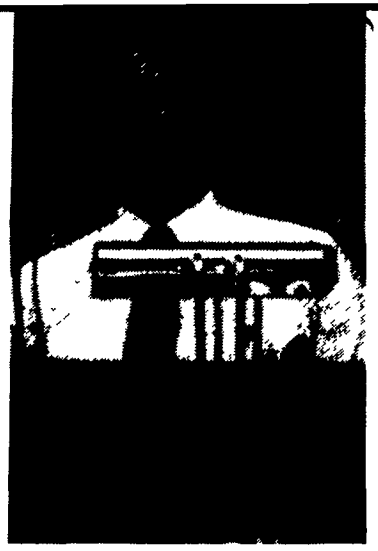
A significant finding, according to Henzler, is that with a high mice infestation, producers were four times more likely to have SE on the farm.

The researchers studied a variety of baiting systems, including open and closed baiting and nonexistant baiting.

The most significant discovery: a closed baiting system, using different active ingredients on a regular basis, rotating no less than once a month, with closed traps every 30 feet or less, was most effective in reducing mice populations in houses. The closed bait systems use PVC pipe with a 1½-inch inside diameter and measure 18 inches long. The traps must be placed everywhere, including below the houses and in any spaces above, because mice will crawl anywhere.

Dr. Bob Eckroade, University of Pennsylvania New Bolton Center Laboratory of Avian Medicine and Pathology, said that food safety remains an issue that must be addressed.

Dr. Bonnie Buntain, director of the USDA Pre-Harvest Food Safety Agency.



Dale Snader, Dutch Country Egg Farms.

Larry Weaver, Beltzel's Spraying, Witmer.

Even though the issues are often blown up in the media, and everybody thinks they are at risk, said Eckroade, they are, to some degree. "Foodborne illness is on the 'front burner,'" said Eckroade.

Eckroade showed an advertisement that ran in a local newspaper for a law firm that handled lawsuits for people who are victims of SE poisoning.

Although SE has claimed the media spotlight the past several years, campylobacter, also a bacteria present in poultry, is perhaps as big or as large a problem.

While the old cliche about "cook it properly and it will be absolutely safe" still holds true, consumer groups pressure the government to handle the problem at the producer level.

And while it is not feasible to completely eradicate all foodborne pathogens, with the advent of the Pennsylvania Egg Quality Assurance Program (PEQAP), already there has been effectiveness in controlling national SE outbreaks.

Eckroade cited the work of the SE Pilot Project and USDA/

APHIS in finding out a great deal about SE. "We are in a position to apply the information to control programs to reduce contamination rate," he said.

In 1993, from Jan. 1-Dec. 1, there were 62 reported outbreaks of SE poisoning in humans, and 22 were egg-implicated. In 1994, in the same time span, there have been only 31 outbreaks, and only seven have been egg-implicated.

Although the risk is there, it can be managed effectively, according to the researcher.

National work has already begun to set up an agency devoted to food safety. The new food safety agency is working to establish hazard analysis critical control points (HACCP) to be implemented by producers on a voluntary basis through the new group, USDA Pre-Harvest Food Safety Agency.

The agency intends to move the USDA "from a cheap problem-solver to helping the industry find solutions to food safety problems," said Dr. Bonnie Buntain, director of the agency.

The new agency may combine the work of APHIS and other departments into one umbrella organization to provide a direct link to the administration, according to Buntain.

Also at the meeting, Larry Weaver, of Beitzel's Spraying, Witmer, spoke about the importance of cleaning and disinfection (C&D). "The most important problem is communication," he said. The grower should be at the site during C&D to ensure that the site is ready for the work and that the workers are doing the work properly. This saves time and money.

USDA Reschedules ASCS Elections

HARRISBURG, (Dauphin Co.) — This year's election for positions on County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) committees throughout Pennsylvania, which were to be held in December are being rescheduled to accommodate changes brought on with last month's enactment of the law to reorganize the USDA.

According to William Baumgartner, acting state executive director, Farm Service Agency, change in the election schedule is nationwide and is authorized under regulations issued by USDA. Current members of ASC committees will continue in their posts until the new election is held next fall.

The laws which reorganized USDA created a new agency,— the Farm Service Agency (FSA) — encompasses all of the commodity support and basic conservation programs of the former ASCS, all of the risk management programs of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC), and the farm lending activities of the Farmers Home Administration(FmHA).

Baumgartner said the new committee system, when fully implemented, will exercise increased responsibilities in its enlarged role. "Rescheduling the elections on a nationwide basis avoids confusion which could occur from hastily drawn rules and regulations," Baumgartner said, "and will create efficiencies by using funds which would have been spent on this year's election process to be used in training committees in performing their added duties."

Farm Show Seeks WWII Airplane Engine Workers

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A special commemorative committee is seeking people who worked on airplane engines in the state's Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg, when it was converted for use during World War II.

The committee is interested in talking to as many people as possible who worked on the airplane engines, because their stories and tales of working there can help with the committee's planned 1995 state Farm Show tribute to the World War II era and the efforts of civilians, set for Jan. 7-12.

During the war, most of the Farm Show Complex was used for classrooms, and as welding and machine shops that supported the Middletown air Depot at Olmsted Field (now home to the Harrisburg International Airport, among other businesses).

However, toward the end of WWII there were four assembly lines set up that gave the Farm Show Complex the ability to overhaul one aircraft engine every 10 minutes.

The people who worked on the airplane engines are being asked to call Fred. Walters at the state Department of Military Affairs, (717) 861-87201, and share their experiences.

The special committee was appointed by Gov. Robert Casey and is called the Pennsylvania WWII Commemorative Committee. It has been coordinating similar projects aimed at helping people understand the importance of military and home front contributions to World War II.

Annually, thousands of people from all over and all ages visit the state Farm Show. This year they can expect to see several displays related to Pennsylvania's agriculturally related contributions to war effort, including two actual aircraft engines to be displayed in the Main Exhibition Hall, near the spot they were worked on 50 years ago.

F.O.2 Farmers Voting

ALBANY, N.Y. — Dairy farmers in the milkshed have the opportunity to vote on a proposed amended New York-New Jersey Federal Milk Marketing Order (Order No. 2) in a mail referendum ending on Dec. 28.

The order as proposed to be amended, contained in a final decision issued by the U.S. Department of Agriculture on December 2, 1994, will replace the existing Class II milk price formula with the basic formula price for the second preceding month plus a fixed differential of 30 cents. The change was considered at a public hearing held Jan. 6 and 7.

All dairy farmers who were producers under Order No. 2 in March 1994 will be eligible to vote on the amended order. Qualified cooperative associations of producers may cast bloc votes on behalf of their members. A producer who is not a cooperative member, or whose cooperative does not bloc vote, may vote by individual ballot.

Whether an individual, partnership, corporation or other type of business enterprise or unit, a producer is entitled to only one vote regardless of the number of farms which the producer may operate, the number of health permits which may have been issued to the producer, or the number of plants to which the producer may have delivered milk during the representative period.

Approval of the order as amended requires a "yes" vote from at least two-thirds of the dairy farmers who cast ballots.

The final decision adopts a new Class II price formula in all federal milk orders. The Class II price would be the basic formula price (Minnesota-Wisconsin price at 3.5 percent butterfat, M-W price) for the second preceding month plus a fixed differential of 30 cents.

The announcement date of the Class II price would be moved up from the current date, on or before the 15th of the previous month, to the same date as the Class I price announcement in all Federal orders, on or before the fifth day of the month.

The announced price would apply to milk marketed during the following month. The "add-back" provision under existing Class II pricing will be eliminated.

The proposed revised Class II formula will improve the efficiency of pricing and marketing milk used in Class II manufactured products. Movements in the Class I and Class II prices will be coordinated. In addition, month-to-month volatility in the Class II price often encountered under the existing formula should be reduced under the proposed formula.

The changes to Federal Order No. 2 also are applicable to New York State Order No. 126 and New Jersey Order No. 57-3. These concurrent state orders are essentially identical to the Federal order.

The final decision and referendum ballots will be placed in the mail soon. The referendum agent urges all eligible producers who are not voting collectively and who do not receive a ballot to contact the Referendum Agent at One Columbia Circle, Albany, NY 12203-5156.

Family Togetherness Thrives At Brubaker Farms

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — More than 600 people from several states recently toured Brubaker Farms in Mount Joy.

Awed by the size, the convenience, and the latest in technology, the crowd often expressed that the complex is a farmer's dream.

It is the dream of not one but three farmers, Luke Brubaker and his two sons, Mike and Tony, who worked together to design a building expansion that would be economical and support three families.

The Brubakers researched ideas by touring a lot of farms.

"We'd talk to anybody who'd talk with us," Mike said. "The nice thing about farmers is that they are open to giving their opinions and ideas on what works and what doesn't. It isn't like other businesses where the owner tries to keep everything secret."

The Brubakers took what they thought was the best bits and pieces from each one and from that designed their own plan.

"We tried to build something economical and labor efficient while keeping animal health and comfort a priority," Mike said of the diversified operation, which includes 300 cows, 48,000 broilers, and 1,200 hogs.

The father and sons said that they work together well because none of them are scared to compromise.

"We all three had ideas in building that we needed to convince the other two to agree," Luke said.

"Sometimes one gets a dream and another one seems too conservative to even consider that dream, but the third one will be the mediator to balance things out.

"We didn't even have an actual blueprint," Luke said. "We'd just tell the builder what we wanted to do and he did it."

The complex includes a new dairy facility with a 400-cow capacity free-stall barn and a Surge Double Ten Parallel parlor with individual release feature and parlor manager computer. A commodity building was erected to hold the bulk feed since commodities are purchased by the tractor-trailer load. A trench silo for forage was needed since with they farm 700 to 800 acres.

Brubaker Farms

A 1,000,000 gallon poured-in-place manure system takes care of manure needs.

The office is decorated like a home with color-coordinated walls, furnishings, and flooring. It's in this room that the family often gathers while Luke's wife Barb and Mike's wife Lisa take care of the bookkeeping and payroll. A cow-shaped cookie jar holds cookies for the five grandchildren who often join their parents there.

The walls are lined with large matted color photos of the grandchildren, taken by daughter Cindy, who is known for her artistic ability.

Cindy is married to Marshall Meador. They live in the farmhouse and have four sons, Mitchell, 7; Brett, 4; Zachary, 2; and Lucas, 1.

Although Marshall is a full-time pilot for Delta Airlines, he enjoys "pitching in some unskilled labour needed around the farm," he said.

The parents encouraged their children to get a college education before deciding to choose farming as a career.

"We wanted them to choose farming by choice and not by necessity," their mother said. "We think it is important to have that degree sort of as an insurance policy."

Five years ago, when Mike graduated from Penn State with an ag business management degree, he knew that the home farm was the place for him. He and his wife Lisa and their 9-month-old daughter Molly live in a home that adjoins the farm land.

Tony graduated this spring from Messiah College with a business administration degree. He said that he had never wavered in his desire to farm full-time. But to be able to support three full-time partners, changes needed to be made.

Luke said, "We realized the old facility was not capable of supporting three families so we chose to expand in order to do what we enjoy."

Timing seemed perfect for making changes. Luke and an older brother, Jim, had farmed in partnership since 1962, when they began with 18 cows and used a two-row corn planter to plant 125 acres. Now, the brother wanted to phase out of the farming operation to open a bed and breakfast named Olde Country Log House Farm. The dissolvement of that partnership was affable and one that enabled Luke to form a partnership with his sons Mike and Tony.

With many doomsayers in the farming business, the decision was not an easy one.

Although Luke considers himself average to aggressive when it comes to keeping on the cutting edge of agriculture, he was a bit cautious about the expansion.

"The bigger you are — the bigger the losses," he said. "It was never my goal to make it big and accumulate a lot. If you own a house with a roof, have a good family, and enough money to pay the bills, what more can you ask?

"Formerly we were milking in a stanchion barn. We had two tie stall barns with 100 head in each. For years the boys would talk about adding a parlour. But I didn't take them seriously until Tony was halfway through college. Then I knew that we had to do something to be able to support three families on the farm. We decided to counteract the doomsayers. I want to work with the boys and make it worthwhile for them. After all, you can't take it (money) along."

Luke pointed to the picture that hangs above his desk. It's a painting of a businessman at a desk consulting with Jesus.

"It's the Lord who we counsel for guidance. We don't just make decisions on our own," Luke said.

His sons agreed. Mike said, "Our main goal is allegiance to the Lord. We work to make that a top priority."

At first, the Brubakers planned to expand on the home farm where Luke had grown up and raised his own family. But it is located next to a development so the family decided to build on what they call the Musser farm, which Luke had purchased 18 years earlier for its adjoining land. The farm had lots of obsolete chicken houses, which Brubaker used for raising hogs before the new facilities were built.

"I'm totally for using what you have and doing the best for it. The boys were creative with modern trend of ventilation and renovated the chicken houses into modern designed calf and heifer barns with lots of southern exposure," Luke said. "We are still using all the farms and all the buildings but with different purposes."

The whole family is delighted with the new facility.

"I'm grateful to dad for having things established so that we could do this. We've been here only three weeks and almost half the herd are first calve heifers, but the herd averages 62½ pounds milk production," Tony said.

He attributes it to cow comfort. "You can tell the cows are really happy. They are so comfortable and content in the new barn. With the mattresses, they lay where they should. It's so easy to manage because the gravity flow takes it right into the manure pit," he said.

The cows are milked three times daily and rather than more work the Brubakers consider it less manual labour than when they were in their outdated barns. Then it required five people to milk 200 cows. Now it takes only one to one and a half persons to milk 300 cows," Tony said.

The three take turns getting things started at 4:30 a.m. The remaining two start work at 6:30 a.m. Each takes one nightime shift and rely on hired help for the remainder.

They oversee the evening milking by viewing it on the computer in the comfort of the office. It's possible to detect exactly what's happening in the barn because the screen shows each cow as it's being milk, if the milker shuts down, milk weights for each cow, records times, compares production input and output costs.

The Brubaker Spring House is available as a retreat center for church, civic groups, and individuals. With streams, meadows, and surrounding fields, the retreat center offers rejuvenation to guests.

"We don't have the hands on time that we did before, but the computer allows us to spot problems so that we can stay on top without every day hands on milking," Mike said.

During the expansion, the partners purchased cows but ordinarily all replacements are home bred with AI.

Although the three share duties, Mike and Tony manage the cows together with Mike specializing in dairy nutrition and Tony in herd health. Dad is general manager and takes care of the hog operation, Mike and Mom manage the chickens and Mike also takes care of field operations.

One of the agreements before making the decision to expand was that Luke could come and go as he pleased. At his age, he wanted to slow down from the hurried pace that he had always kept. Now the boys joke that he never completes a milking, but Luke likes running for parts, phone work, taking care of the details that general managers do, and the public relations required.

Luke is most grateful that, for the first time in his working life, he doesn't need to get up early every morning. He likes being able to see all the cows and to detect when one is in heat just by driving through in his car while he's still dressed in a suit and tie.

Theoretically the brothers have every other Sunday off, but time off is easily negotiable.

All family members are active in church work, Mike and Lisa are youth leaders, Tony teaches Bible school and works on person to person relationships.

The groundwork for family togetherness was actually laid when the family was growing up.

Brubaker Farms

the farm. Marry for love and because you think she'll be a good mother of your children."

Growing up, the children were always given the freedom to do what they enjoyed doing.

They learned to work and be responsible, but were never held back from school activities except after Mike had gone out for two school sports and wanted to add a third, he was reminded that work on the farm needed to be done.

"We were always paid something for chores around the farm even if it was only 25 cents an hour," Tony said.

The parents said they learned to give space to each child to be their own individual even if they did not always agree with the decisions made.

Of his parents, Tony said, "They were not quick to say no even if they thought it was pointless. They were not authoritarian. We could make our own decisions — even if that sometimes meant carrying the biggest guilt trip in the world."

"They were great role models and still are," he said.

Marshall said that the closeness of family relationships is one of the reasons he is willing to commute three and a half hours to the airline in New York.

"I consider it to be a small sacrifice to be able to live here and raise four sons on the family farm. My idea of what I think of this bunch is the very best. If my boys grow up like Tony and Mike, I'd be quite proud," he said.

The Brubakers value Marshall's non-farming opinons when it comes to decision making.

"He's got a good business mind and he's our tie to the outside world," Luke said. "He reminds us that there is a shaking up in every industry not just in farming."

Although the setup requires much less manual work, the Brubakers said, "Just because it's more efficient doesn't mean we aren't working. It's a lot more to manage and no room for error."

Each partner estimates that they work 10 to 12 hour days. "When you're having fun, the time goes fast," they each insist.

Marshall said, "The thing I admire about the family is that when it's time to work, they work hard and get dirty, but then they have a lot of fun and aren't afraid to play hard too."

Mike said, "Farming is a good way of life where you can be with your family and if you manage well enough you have time to spend doing other things."

All play golf, tennis, and hunt. Tony skis and plays basketball. Barb is on the church building committee and a member of Farm Women Society 27.

"I've always loved agriculture," said Luke, who was FFA president when he went to Donegal High School. He is chairman of the East Donegal Township Supervisors; chairman of the Poultry Meat Council, Pa. Poultry Meat Representative, and on the government legislative committee for the American Farm Bureau, and a representative for the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation.

Mike is on the meat council for the Pa. Poultry Federation and on the ag committee of the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce.

Myths Persist About Poisonous Holiday Plants

UNIVERSITY PARK, (Centre Co.) — Some reports about poisonous holiday plants are as mythical as tales of Santa, says a Penn State horticulturist.

"Certain holiday plants believed to be fatal if eaten are relatively harmless, while others are truly toxic," says Dr. J. Robert Nuss, professor of ornamental horticulture in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. "Since children and pets can't make the distinction between what's dangerous and what isn't, it's best to keep all plants out of their reach."

Many people persist in believing that the most popular Christmas plant, the poinsettia, is extremely poisonous.

"People who are allergic to the plant's milky sap can develop a rash if it gets on their hands," says Nuss. "But the poinsettia isn't fatal if eaten. If children or pets eat any part of the plant, at worst they might experience some stomach discomfort."

About 20 years ago, two Ohio State researchers fed large quantities of poinsettia parts to rats, with no ill effects. In 1975, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission exonerated the poinsettia of the false charge that it's lethal if ingested.

The commission also refuted allegations that the berries of American mistletoe are fatal if eaten. "But that doesn't mean mistletoe berries are edible," says Nuss. "Mistletoe should be hung out of the reach of children and pets, and berries that drop should be removed from the floor immediately."

About 400 plant species in the United States are known to be poisonous, according to "Poisonous Plants of the United States," by Walter Conrad Muenscher. Among them are holly, ivy, Jerusalem cherry, laurel, rhododendron and yew — all commonly used in holiday decorations.

If a child or pet accidentally ingests these plants, consult a physician or veterinarian immediately. Do not induce vomiting without the advice of a doctor. If a plant containing corrosive juices has been eaten, vomiting can damage the digestive tract.

The Poison Information Center for central Pennsylvania can be reached by calling 1-800-521-6110.

Christmas Dinner Ideas

Christmas dinner is probably the most important meal that you prepare all year. You'll want it to be a show-stopper.

You can try traditional recipes, but how about trying something different — perhaps a bit more elegant.

An easy-to-prepare beef tenderloin roast makes a spectacular holiday meal. Roasting requires only three pieces of equipment: a shallow open roasting pan, a rack for the pan, and a meat thermometer. Once in the oven, roasts don't need much attention so there's ample time to prepare other meal components or to sip a cup of holiday eggnog with family and friends.

In this elegant but easy holiday recipe, a beef tenderloin roast is rubbed with a savory combination of garlic, basil, rosemary, and black pepper — all standard cupboard ingredients that come together to make a special combination. After rubbing, the roast is placed on the rack in a shallow open roasting pan (without covering it) and cooked until the meat thermometer registers 140 degrees for medium-rare or 155 degrees for medium doneness. Make sure to insert the thermometer into the thickest part of the roast, not resting in fat.

One important thing to remember about roasts is that they should be removed from the oven prior to reaching the desired internal temperatures. Roasts need a standing time before you carve them (this allows the juices to set up and makes them easier to carve). During this time the temperature will continue to rise about 5 degrees.

While the tenderloin roasts, you can make Holiday Rice. French-style green beans, chopped red bell pepper, and slivered almonds give this cooked rice dish a festive flavor and flair. Serve the meal with a salad of mixed greens tossed with a tangy vinaigrette dressing. For dessert, offer guests a sliver of chocolate cake or truffles and coffee.

BABY CAKES BUTTER SHORTBREAD

2 cups all-purpose flour
1 cup butter, softened
½ cup sugar
Colored sugar, sprinkles or colored jimmies, if desired

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Place flour, butter, and sugar in a heavy-duty plastic zip-type food storage bag. Securely seal bag. Knead bag with hands to blend ingredients thoroughly. Open bag; scrape dough together with rubber spatula to remove from bag. (If necessary, refrigerate to firm dough for ease in handling). Shape into 1-inch diameter balls. Place 2 inches apart on unbuttered cookie sheets. Flatten to approximately ¼ -inch thickness with a fork, cookie stamp or by pressing with fingers. Spinkle with sugar, sprinkles or jimmies. Bake 20 to 25 minutes or until lightly browned around edges. Let stand on cookie sheet 5 minutes. Remove from oven; transfer to wire racks. Cool completely.

Variation: Pat dough into two 7-inch diameter cookies on unbuttered cookie sheet. If desired, sprinkle with mini semisweet chocolate chips, colored sugar, sprinkles or jimmies. Bake at 325 degrees 35 to 40 minutes or until lightly browned around the edges. While still warm, cut each into 8 pie-shaped wedges. Let stand on cookie sheet 10 minutes. Transfer wedges to wire rackes. Cool completely on wire racks.

PUMPKIN DROP BISCUITS

1 cup whole wheat flour
1 cup unbleached flour
2 tablespoons sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ cup cooked mashed pumpkin
1 cup nonfat buttermilk

Combine the flours, sugar, and baking powder, and stir well. In a separate bowl, combine the pumpkin and buttermilk, and stir until blended. Add the pumpkin mixture to the flour mixture, and stir just until the dry ingredients are moistened.

Coat a baking sheet with nonstick cooking spray. Drop heaping tablespoonfuls of dough onto the sheet, placing the biscuits one-half-inch apart for soft biscuits, or 1½ -inches apart for crusty biscuits.

Bake at 375 degrees for about 18 minutes, or until lightly browned. Transfer to a serving plate, and serve hot.

For an easy and elegant holiday meal, serve Herbed Tenderloin and Holiday Rice. While the beef tenderloin cooks, there's time to prepare rice accompaniment.

SALAD IN THE PINK

20-ounce can crushed pineapple
6-ounces strawberry gelatin
16-ounces whole berry cranberry sauce
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
3 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
2 cups sour cream
½ cup chopped pecans

Drain pineapple; reserve juice. Combine reserved rice, 1 cup water and gelatin in saucepan. Heat to boiling, stirring to completely dissolve gelatin. Remove from heat. Stir cranberry sauce, lemon peel and juice, and nutmeg into gelatin mixture. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold sour cream, pecans, and pineapple into cranberry mixture. Pour into 2-quart mold or 13x9-inch pan. Chill until firm.

HOLIDAY RICE

2 tablespoons butter
¾ cup chopped onion
¾ cup coarsely chopped red bell pepper
1 clove garlic, crushed
9-ounce package frozen French-style green beans, defrosted, drained
3 cups hot cooked rice
½ cup slivered almonds, toasted

In large skillet, heat butter over medium heat until melted. Add onion, bell pepper, and garlic. Cook 5 minutes or until tender, stirring occasionally. Add beans; continue cooking 2 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Reduce heat to low. Stir in rice and almonds; cook 2 minutes or until heated through, stirring occasionally. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

CHRISTMAS DELIGHT BALLS

½ cup butter
1 egg
1 cup sugar
1 cup chopped dates or raisins
3 cups rice crispy cereal
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ cup nuts
Dash salt

Cook first four ingredients in a saucepan for 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Cool slightly, add remaining ingredients, and mix well. Form into small walnut-size balls and roll in confectioners' sugar. For variety, color some flaked coconut red and some green to roll the balls into.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

My apologies if you were the person pushing the shopping cart behind me.

I didn't mean to create the mini-traffic-jam. Like most shoppers this time of year, I was prowling endless rows of aisles, bleary-eyed and slack-jawed, stalking a few last minor holiday items on my list.

Then a small display of appliances in the local large retail center stopped me dead in my tracks. Front and center in the display was a crockpot. Done in Holstein-cow, black-and-white-spot color.

A cow-spot crockpot. And a toaster, too. The giggle they brought brightened the moment of pushing through shopping crowds and sent me steering my cart toward the checkout with a grin on my face.

We've been accumulating "cow-lectibles" since The Farmer began milking cows here, 31 years ago as of December 1. Never before had I seen a cow crackpot. In fact in those early years, it was almost impossible to find anything artistically oriented to cows.

Occasionally, in a gift shop or five-and-ten (we still called them that, then), I would pick up a small ceramic cow with calves, a cow and bull salt-and-pepper shaker shaker or maybe a cow-shaped creamer that delivered the milk out the cow's muzzle.

Then, when country decor became all the rage and brought a rebirth of interest in arts and crafts, suddenly cows were "in." And "out," as painted plywood cows became popular lawn ornaments—except at places like ours, where the real thing is too often roaming the back yard.

Naturally, as "cow-lectibles" became more abundant and increasingly creative, some found their way into our old farm house. Many came as gifts from friends, making them extra special to us. With all the farm mud, manure, corn, hay and feed stuff bits that show up on the floor, the cow accessories just help complete the barnyard effect—and distract the eye from the assorted cobwebs.

Many of our cow-lectibles make their home around the kitchen: mugs, glasses, hotpads, aprons, butter and candy dishes, pitchers, place mats, trivets, cutting boards planters, suncatchers hung at the windows. A cow cookie cutter I purchased killing time while stranded for five hours in the Dayton, Ohio, airport stands muzzle-to-muzzle with a cow napkin-holder from a Holstein meeting.

The Farmer (and every other kid that comes through) often reaches his hand up to "ding" the metal cow wind chimes that hang by the kitchen/ office door.

Others cow-lect in the living room. A cross-stitched "We Love Cows" motif shares wall space with a hand-carved wooden picture of the five cow breeds, inset with realistic eyes. The treasured antique reproduction of a cow pull-toy sits beside a cow-bucket lined with Holstein-spotted fabric. My beloved teddy bears repose on cow afghans thrown across the old rocking chair I salvaged from Daddy's chicken house.

And our black and white cat claims dibs on the fake fur cow blanket, blending right into the color when she curls up in its folds. Cowmaflauge, sort of.

Fabric stores slip through the cracks of my usually-practical-minded buying habits and an assortment of cow-print fabrics awaits the eventual "someday" they'll be put to use. Yardage I stumbled onto in an outlet one day also yielded the stuffed cow doll, still missing one ear yet to be sewn on, that gazes down from the top of a cabinet.

Now, 'tis the season when the attic Christmas boxes bring forth a very special herd of treasured holiday ornaments. From the carved cow in the wooden manger scene to paper cow garland for the tree, we prepare to celebrate the season with our favorite animal.

Time to deck the halls with cows and holly...

Christmas Tree Tips

TOWANDA (Bradford Co.) — When choosing a Christmas tree you should consider a number of different items. Of course most people have personal preferences for certain trees. Often times these preferences relate back to memories of happy Christmases or very beautiful trees. These preferences are important in choosing a tree as they add to the Christmas spirit.

One of the first items you should look for in a tree is freshness. Trees that come from long distances like Lake States Norway pine or Douglas fir grown in the west will likely not be as fresh as locally grown sources. The freshest tree is one you cut yourself.

If you purchase a cut tree, there are three tests you can use to check for freshness. Number one is the needle test. You should bend the needle and if it breaks and does not bend and spring back it is probably not fresh. The second test is the bump test.This is less reliable than the needle test but it can work. Bump the trees' stem on the ground several times to see if needles fall. If a large number of needles fall the tree is probably not fresh. A problem with this test is that shaking may dislodge old needles that fell off naturally and were caught in the foliage. Number three is the sappy stem test. If the stem is sappy moist it is likely a fresh tree. If the stem is dry, the tree may not be fresh or it may have been bumped on the ground a lot already. To determine freshness you should use all three tests.

There are other things to consider in choosing a tree. Items like needle holding ability, fragrance and branch firmness are often considered when purchasing a tree.

Once you decide on and purchase a tree here are some tips on keeping your tree fresh. When you bring your tree home, stand it in a bucket of water outdoors or in a cool place indoors. If you leave the tree outside it must be protected from cold, drying winds and the sun. Snow and rain will not harm the tree but heat will cause the needles of some species to dry quickly.

When you bring your tree in to decorate it, make a fresh cut across the butt at least one inch above the existing cut. The cut should be smooth and clean to insure the maximum amount of water absorption. Place the tree in a container of water or a stand that has a water reservoir. Keep the reservoir filled above the base of the stem. Check the reservoir often as trees will use a tremendous amount of water, sometimes two quarts per day. If the reservoir is allowed to go dry, it will inhibit the ability to absorb water even if the reservoir is refilled.

As you add water to the reservoir, check for spill or sweating from the container. Blot spill immediately with paper towels. Place thick padding of towels over any wet area and weight it down to allow moisture to be picked up into the toweling.

ANSWER — Aida Mothes, Renick, W.V., wrote that she was in Norway, a quick bread that was often served in restaurants was a fruit or nut bread that was very moist. Thanks to Stan's Kitchen, Dallas, for sending two recipes.

Momma's Norwegian Kringle

¾ pound butter
2 packages active dry yeast
3½ cups all-purpose flour
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon ground cardamom
1½ cups warmed milk
Cinnamon
Sugar
Ground nuts

Melt ¼ pound butter in warm milk. Mix well all dry ingredients. Cover and let stand one hour in warm place to rise.

Place dough on floured board and with rolling pin roll dough to about ¼ -inch thickness. Use 5 tablespoons soft butter and spread over dough. Roll up, cover and let set 15 minutes. Repeat last step. Let set to rise another 15 minutes.

Repeat again with 6 tablespoons butter. Before rolling, sprinkle cinnamon sugar and ground nuts. Roll into long-tube shape in figure 8 or pretzel. Place on cookie sheet and allow to rise one hour. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes or until golden brown. After cooling, ice with the following mixture:

2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon black coffee
Confectioners' sugar to make spreadable paste

Ice and top with more ground almonds and walnuts. Slice on diagonal and serve with coffee or tea. Freezes well.

Dainty Lemon Layer

2 cups sifted pastry flour
¾ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
1 egg, well beaten
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Sift flour once, measure, add baking soda and salt and sift together three times. Work butter with spoon until creamy. Add sugar gradually, beating after each addition until light and fluffy, add egg. Blend well. Add flour, a small amount at a time, alternately with combined milk and lemon juice, beating after each addition until smooth. Turn into greased 8-inch layer pans. Bake in 375 degree oven for 25 minutes.

Spread lemon filling between layers and frost with fluffy frosting.

EXPLANATION — To all the contributors to this column who take the time to copy a recipe and send it in but never see it in print, my apologies. For some questions, we receive an overwhelming response such as those recently for snow pudding, pumpkin roll, and ice cream without eggs. Space does not allow us to print all of them — and who wants 50 recipes that are almost identical? On the other hand, perhaps your recipe was a bit different and you tried one of the recipes that was printed and think that yours tastes much better so why didn't they print it? Again, my apologies. We do not test recipes so we have no way of knowing whose tastes best. For some recipes, we only receive one response and sometimes even none. So keep sending those recipes and you're sure to see your name in print soon. Also, remember to check the Recipe Topics on page B6. If you send a recipe in advance for that topic, you can be almost certain that it will appear in the paper. It's always interesting to read your little notes about recipes that have some family history or unusual story connected with it or about your own life.

HERBED BEEF TENDERLOIN WITH HOLIDAY RICE

3 to 4-pound well-trimmed beef tenderloin roast
2 cloves garlic, crushed
2 teaspoons olive oil
1½ teaspoons dried basil leaves
1 teaspoon coarse grind black pepper
½ teaspoon dried rosemary, crushed
Salt

Heat oven to 425 degrees. Combine garlic and oil; brush over surface of beef roast. Sprinkle evenly with basil, pepper, and rosemary. Place roast on rack in shallow roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer so bulb is centered in thickest part, not resting in fat. Do not add water or cover. Roast in 425 degrees for approximately 45 to 50 minutes for medium-rare to medium doneness.

Meanwhile, prepare Holiday Rice.

Remove roast when meat thermometer reaches 140 degrees for medium-rare and 155 degrees for medium. Tent roast with aluminum foil; let stand 15 minutes. (The temperature will continue to rise to 145 degrees for medium-rare, 155 degrees for medium).

Carve roast into ¼ -inch thick slices; season with salt, as desired. Serve with rice.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

LEG OF LAMB WITH APRICOT STUFFING

3 to 3½ pounds leg of lamb, shank half, boned, butterflied
6-ounce package dried apricots, snipped
¼ cup apple juice
¼ cup wild rice, rinsed and drained
1½ cups chicken broth
½ cup long-grain rice
¼ cup chutney
¼ cup sliced green onion
2 teaspoons dried basil, crushed
½ teaspoon lemon pepper
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper

In bowl, combine apricots and apple juice; cover and let stand 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. In saucepan, combine wild rice and broth. Bring to a boil; reduce heat. Cover and simmer 40 minutes. Add long-grain rice. Cover and simmer 15 minutes more. Remove from heat. Let stand, covered, 5 minutes. Stir in apricot mixture, chutney (cut up any large chutney pieces) green onion, basil, and lemon pepper.

Trim any fat from lamb. With boned side up, pound meat with meat mallet to an even thickness. Sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper. Spread rice mixture over meat. Roll up, starting with a narrow end; tie securely. Place roast on end, spiral side up, on a rack in shallow roasting pan. Cover exposed rice mixture with a small piece of foil. Roast at 325 degrees for 1¾ hours or to medium doneness. Remove from oven. Cover and let stand about 10 minutes before slicing.

Consuming Thoughts

With the holiday season at hand, many of us are looking for fresh ideas for hors d'oeuvres. Whether you're having a big party or a small dinner, let seafood be part of your menu.

You can serve a diverse selection of appetizers when you use seafood. And since many seafood preparations are light, your guests can enjoy them and still look forward to the main course.

Or you can serve a selection of seafood appetizers, in combination with other foods such as raw vegetables, crackers and fruit, as a light meal. Some hors d'oeuvres, such as marinated broiled shrimp, can also be a main course.

Plan to have mostly cold appetizers, with only a couple of hot ones. Then you can enjoy your guests with minimal time in the kitchen.

Some of the simplest appetizers are also the tastiest. This shortens preparation time. And many, such as cold spreads and dips, can be prepared ahead of time. They're often better when made a day before serving.

Why not add festive flair and ocean flavor to your holiday hors d'oeuvres with a shrimp Christmas tree?

The tree is easy to assemble and offers a light, tasty alternative to the heavy hors d'oeuvres and calorie-ridden sweets that abound during the holiday season.

Shrimp Christmas Tree

2 pounds medium shrimp
1 bunch curly endive
1 foam cone, 1 1/2 feet tall
1 small box round toothpicks
cocktail sauce

Place shrimp in boiling salted or seasoned water. Cover and simmer about five minutes or until shrimp are pink and tender. Drain, Peel shrimp. Devein if desired. Chill.

Separate, wash and dry endive.

Starting at the base of the foam cone and working up, cover the cone with overlapping leaves of endive. Fasten endive to the cone with toothpick halves. Cover fully with greens to resemble Christmas tree. Attach shrimp to the tree in loose spirals with toothpicks.

For flair, add a red bow to the top of your tree. Provide cocktail sauce in nearby bowl for dipping shrimp.

Cocktail Sauce

1 1/2 cups catsup
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons horseradish
1 1/2 teaspoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon or more Tabasco
salt and pepper to taste

Combine all ingredients and chill.

The tree can be assembled several hours in advance. But be sure it is tightly wrapped in plastic wrap to keep the shrimp from drying out and returned to the refrigerator for chilling. Keep the tree under refrigeration until serving.

The Hoffman family enjoy Christmas traditions such as this one. Dad Steve reads the Christmas story while his wife Beverly and daughters, Angela, Joy, Katrina, and Tessa listen.

Christmas Traditions From The Hoffman Family

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

AKRON (Lancaster Co.) — Families everywhere are busy preparing for Christmas. Many have family traditions, which are established customs they enjoy doing each Christmas.

These traditions often become happy memories associated with Christmas. They are things that family members want to do again and again each year.

The Hoffman family in Akron is no exception. Parents Steve and Beverly have four daughters, Angela, 9; Joy, 7; Katrina, 4; and Tessa, 10 months.

When daughter Angela was asked to name her happiest memory about Christmas, she said, "When dad reads the Christmas story in the Bible and we open presents."

Each year, on Christmas morning the family gathers around the tree for the story before opening presents. But before they do that, they have other traditions and one of those is what Joy loves to do.

She said, "When we decorate the tree, we each put up our own ornaments."

Each child receives a new ornament each year to hang on the tree. For her first Christmas, Joy received a tiny baby in a Johnny Jump-Up swing. This is still her favorite ornament and the one she hangs first each year.

Angela enjoys making presents for other family members. Some of her homemade presents over the years have been a calendar, placemats, a picture frame, and Christmas ornaments.

The girls bake Christmas cookies at their Grandpa and Grandma's home.

Each year the Hoffmans also prepare a package for a missionary family. Many times families living in other countries cannot buy bubble gum and snack foods that children like to eat. So the Hoffmans often include those items with a special toy for each child in the family.

This year, the Hoffmans and some of their friends called the Ephrata Social services to ask for the names of families who don't have much to eat. The Hoffmans and their friends will take food baskets to three different families.

Christmas Eve is the night for more traditions. After the family eats popcorn, they snuggle in sleeping bags under the tree for the night's sleep.

Katrina is only four years old, but she remembers the fun of opening presents.

After the presents are opened, the family has a birthday party for Jesus. The children's mother purchases a decorated cake with the words, "Happy Birthday, Jesus." They put candles on the cake and sing, "Happy Birthday."

"That helps teach the children that Jesus is the unseen guest at the table," she said.

For Christmas dinner, the family takes turns every other year visiting their two sets of grandparents. Because one set of grandparents live two hours away, the family sometimes stays overnight.

The Hoffmans want their children to realize the true meaning of Christmas. They do not emphasize anything with Santa Claus. They believe it is important for children to distinguish between the true meaning of Christmas and the pretense of Christmas.

Joy thought of a pretense about Christmas that many children believe. She said, "Reindeer don't fly." She said this in reference to the poem, "T'was the Night Before Christmas."

Christmas traditions are fun and are ways that help families do things together. The Hoffmans continue to find new traditions they enjoy doing together.

Strengthen Your Family With Family Time

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — One of the most important traits of a strong family is the ability to provide the affection, love, understanding, and trust each member needs. Parents who have a warm, loving relationship with their children, give them encouragement and support, contribute greatly to the child's emotional, social, and intellectual development.

"Family Time" is a set of four booklets for each age group: (2-3, 4-6, and 7-8). There is a different book for each season. The booklets are designed for the family - for parents and children to spend time together doing different activities. "Family Time" will be mutually rewarding for both parents and children if planned for and carried out on a regular basis. The booklets are free.

If you are interested in learning about the various activities that you can do with your child or children to create an atmosphere that will enable parents and children to have a closer relationship, call your county office.

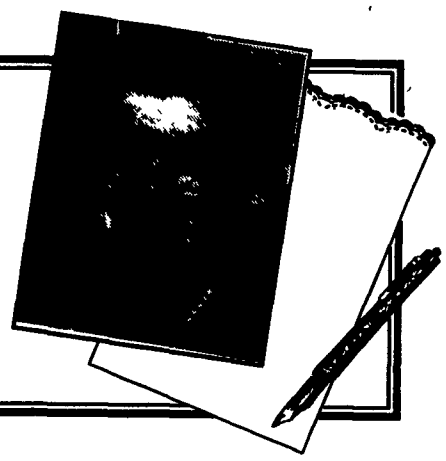
Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser



My living room is full of books and flowers. The impatiens and begonias have lots of red and bright pink flowers. It seems that every few days they need water as the bay window faces south and they get lots of sun. However, I do enjoy the bright colors all winter long.

Now the books, magazines, and newspapers keep piling up as usual. As I love to read, I hate to throw them away before I've looked at them. Some sections of the Sunday paper never do get looked at and eventually get pitched when we get visitors.

One reader of this paper sent me a book that she had enjoyed. And, a man from Massachusetts sent me a magazine about cranberry harvesting. Maybe after Christmas I'll get to reading it some more.

Speaking of Christmas, last week I helped to make 100 paper angels as favors for a banquet. We used gold crinkled paper and tiny gold beads for the head and hands. Several of us worked together and finished in short order. Now my problem is getting a good idea for decorating the two tables that have been assigned to me. I think that I'll start with some of my own evergreens and holly plus red ribbon.

We expect to go to a Christmas tree farm for our tree. Last year we found that the fresh-cut tree lasted very long. Our tree will need to be a small one as I put it on a chest that faces a big window. First thing that I must do is empty the chest top of 15 pictures of family members. I hope that I can find an empty drawer to put them in temporarily. Things do seem to get rearranged over this season but we look forward to having a lot of company.

Agri-Women Hold Convention

TIGARD, Oregon — American Agri-Women celebrated their 20th Anniversary at this year's annual convention, hosted by Oregon Women for Agriculture, November 10-14. Participants from across the U.S. gathered to reflect upon the strength of AAW; a group that has grown from a few concerned farm wives to more than 50 state and commodity affiliates throughout the nation today, with the newest affiliate Ohio Holstein Women.

Ardath DeWall, AAWs current President stated, "Our members have celebrated our successful history and look forward to implementing our new strategic plan in 1995. Some of AAW's goals for the coming year are to implement new alliances, increase our efforts to inform all segments of our society about the economic significance of American agriculture and to become a potent force in shaping proactive policies for agriculture in the future. "In addition, two new national officers were elected; Jeraldine Mulkey from Monmouth, Oregon will serve as Secretary and Kathyrn Alder of Melba, Idaho will be Vice President of Education.

Alston Chase, noted environmental writer and scholar addressed the group about the need for MW members to "become involved in shifting the nation's environmental policy away from an elitist, class war ideology toward a more scientifically sound and pragmatic approach that recognizes the significant role that humans have always had in shaping the landscape."

Dr. Fred Obermiller, an agricultural economist from Oregon State University and expert on land use stressed a need to break the "unholy trinity" of current environmental policy, by requiring mandated funding for new regulations and laws, requiring cost/benefit/risk analysis of new environmental proposals as well as fair compensation for any government "taking" of private property.

Laura Leiby

Laura Leiby, Tamaqua, Named Delegate

Laura Leiby, Tamaqua, was among 1,400 youths gathering in Orlando, Fla. for the 73rd National 4-H Congress, December 3-7.

Delegates from 50 states and Puerto Rico were joined by state advisers, national 4-H staff, trustees, donors and volunteers for the 4-H Congress.

Laura was selected to sing with the National 4-H Congress Chorus. She was one of the two Pennsylvania delegates in the 35-member chorus.

They performed at donor banquets and other special occasions at the 4-H National Congress.

While building on its history of educating American youth to solve "issues critical to their lives, their families and society," the 1994 Congress led the way into the future with its bold, new Workforce Preparedness Initiative.

Through the new program, which was launched at this year's Congress, delegates received information and skills to help them in career applications.

Holiday Health Alert!

Better Watch What You're Eating!

Holiday headaches. We all experience them to one degree or another. However, the 23 million Americans who suffer from migraine, a debilitating, biological disease, are especially at risk. For the unsuspecting migraine sufferers who monitor their diets throughout the rest of the year, the temptation to sample holiday desserts and festive beverages could prove incapacitating.

Approximately 20% of all migraine sufferers have a sensitivity to a specific food or foods. Unsuspecting migraine sufferers should familiarize themselves with the most common dietary triggers which can stimulate migraines. As the chart demonstrates, migraine triggers are lurking in even the most traditional of holiday fare

The migraine trigger menu varies per individual. Not eating can also trigger migraines. Missing meals or dieting can cause low blood sugar levels, yet another migraine trigger.

Spring Garden Farm Establishes Bed And Breakfast After Barn Burns

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

MARTINSBURG (Blair Co.) — When the world serves you lemons, you make lemonade. Or, when an arsonist burns down your barn destroying your livelihood, you find another use for the farm.

Such was the case with Albert and Doris Kauffman, who, having raised eight children in a spacious five-bedroom historic house, decided they had the perfect spot for their Spring Garden Farm Bed and Breakfast.

The picturesque stone home was built in 1824 but, with few changes, provides the kind of comfortable setting usually seen in travel magazines.

Doris Kauffman is the first to admit a Bed and Breakfast is a lot of work, but quickly adds, also a lot of satisfaction.

Surrounded by the beauty of Morrisons Cove's farmland, the Kauffmans had always maintained a picture perfect lawn. They also had an abundance of bedrooms.

Establishing a vacation spot, however, called for some facelifting such as new paint, bed spreads, and other accessories. Each bed was outfitted with a new box mattress and air conditioning was a necessity despite the cool breezes that usually flow through the large windows.

Comforts are many, but the Kauffmans have kept the price as low as possible with a night's stay starting at $25.

To make more room for their guests, Doris and Albert built themselves a bedroom in the basement.

Each room is also equipped with its own thermostat for the comfort of the guests.

For those who wish to lounge on the farm, there are spacious porches and inviting farm animals that welcome attention.

Children often visit the Spring Garden with their parents and find only the parlor off limits.

"We have spent years furnishing the parlor with antiques and collectibles," Doris said. "And for our own comfort and that of the children, we keep them out of there."

The family/dining room is comfortable and inviting. It is here that guests find the table set with a continental breakfast featuring fresh canned fruits and jellies and homemade muffins or breads.

On weekdays, guests serve themselves because Doris is at work on her school bus driving job before most people think of getting out of bed.

Weekends, the breakfast menu includes rib-sticking bacon, ham, eggs and hotcakes.

One of the most inviting residents of Spring Garden is a dachshund who recently gave birth to a new litter of puppies. Guests may also enjoy or purchase a vast assortment of crafts created by Doris and displayed in the front hall.

Spring Garden Farm Bed and Breakfast as viewed from the outside.

Nearby attractions include Old Bedford Village, the Horseshoe Curve, The Altoona Railroad Center, Raystown Lake, and Blue Knob.

In order to acclimate themselves with the Bed and Breakfast industry, Doris and Albert began their new adventure by attending seminars.

"We were told to remove all personal belongings from the walls of the bedrooms," Doris recalls.

"Personally, I thought that was a bad idea. I left my family pictures, the framed copy of our marriage license and my youngest son's hat collections on the walls. And, they have always been a source of conversation."

Problems with guests have been neither numerous or absent. On one occasion a family asked to use the house over Christmas. The Kauffmans had gone to visit one of their children, but knowing the family, decided it would be "okay".

Luckily, a daughter who lives nearby stopped in before the house became a total disaster.

Guests have also done such inconsiderate deeds as removing a quilt (a 40th anniversary present from their children) from the bannister and sitting on it; turning up the heat while they open the windows; or carrying food into the rooms.

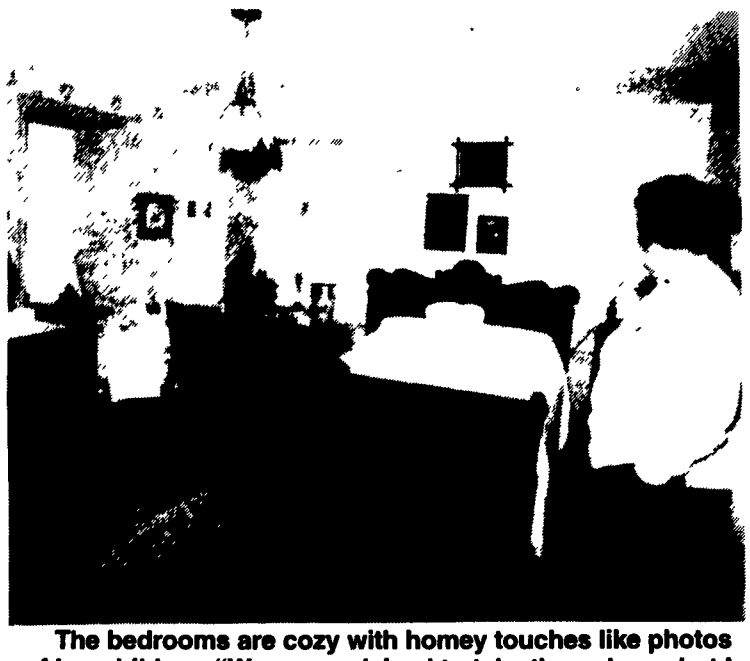
"But for the most part, our guests are wonderful people who we very much enjoy and welcome back anytime."

Among them, a lady pilot who flew freight during World War II, has flown for vice president Dan Quayle and flies her grandchildren to Europe on a regular basis.

The Association for the preservation of the chestnut tree in America also recently used Spring Garden for accommodations while convening in a nearby town.

"It's a good life," Doris says. "You meet so many interesting people, you could write a book."

"And most of all, we've learned that even something as disastrous as a fire isn't the end of the world. You just pick up the pieces and go on from there."



The bedrooms are cozy with homey touches like photos of her children. "We were advised to take them down, but I chose to do otherwise," Doris said.

Doris Kauffman puts a finishing touch on the parlor prior to the arrival of guests at Spring Garden Farm Bed and Breakfast.

Interpretive Christmas Program At Ephrata Cloister

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Clear cold moonlight glistens from the steeply gabled wooden rooftops. Darkened dormer windows stare vacantly on the tranquil scene of crooked limbs grasping upward toward the darkened sky. The antique style of the buildings and the serenity of the scene is evocative of the wild landscape of medieval Germany. The events about to be witnessed, however, will recreate the experiences of German-speaking pioneers who traveled to this very spot on the banks of the Cocalico Creek in what was then Pennsylvania's Conestoga wilderness more than a quarter of a millenium ago.

Using a technique called first-person interpretation, which combines history with theater, visitors to the Ephrata Cloister on the evenings of December 27, 28, 29, and 30 will find themselves transported more than two centuries into the past where they will be greeted by Catharina Mellinger on the evening of December 26, 1784. Just two days before, Sister Maria Eicher has passed to her eternal rest in her room at the cloister. Sister Maria had lived at, Ephrata for more than 51 years, first settling in a small cabin on the east side of the Cocalico Creek with her sister Anna in 1733, and later serving many years as prioress of the community. Following up two seasons of award-winning interpretive Christmas programs, the Ephrata Cloister Chapter of the Student Historians of Pennsylvania will portray Maria's contemporaries who reflect upon the character and struggles of this remarkable colonial woman.

The site of one of America's earliest communal societies, the Ephrata Cloister was founded in 1732 by Conrad Beissel, a German pietist mystic. It is best known for its fine examples of calligraphic writing known as Frakturschriften, its impressive body of choral music, its vast output as a colonial printing center and the survival of fine Germanic medieval style log and half-timber buildings. The Student Historian Chapter is an educational program of the Ephrata Cloister Associates, the non-profit volunteer organization which helps support the educational mission of the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission.

Owned and administered by the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, the Ephrata Cloister is located at the junction of Routes 322 and 272 in Ephrata. The Christmas Candlelight Tours will depart from the visitors Center on the evenings December 27, 28, 29, 30 on the half hour from 6:30 to 9 p.m., Tickets are $6 for adults, $5 for seniors, and $4 for youth (6-17). Reservations are required. For reservations call 717-733-4811 on weekdays or 717-733-6600 on weekends. Individuals with disabilities who require assistance or accommodation should call ahead to discuss their needs.

Get The Most From Holiday Food Shopping

UNIVERSITY PARK, (Centre Co.) — If you plan to entertain or prepare large family meals during the holidays, don't let the seasonal hustle and bustle keep you from making wise food purchases, said a family resource specialist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"If you tack grocery shopping to the end of an exhausting gift shopping trip, you may be tempted to rush through the supermarket as quickly as possible," said Dr. Marilyn Furry, associate professor of extension education. "Under those circumstances, you may buy food more impulsively and spend more money than you planned."

Furry said to get the most from your food dollar, look for advertised specials on items you need. "If items are advertised, see that you get them at the price in the ad," she said.

Looking at unit pricing, or the cost per unit of measurement, also can stretch your holiday food budget. "Use unit pricing to compare the price per quart of soft drinks in various size bottles and cans," Furry said. "Which size gives you the most beverage at the least cost?"

Furry said unit pricing also can help you choose the best values in other foods. Compare the price per pound of fast cooking or seasoned rice versus plain rice; seasoned vegetables versus plain frozen vegetables; and prepared stuffings versus bread crumbs and your own ingredients.

"Read the labels on cans for net weight and content," said Furry. "Is it cheaper to prepare glazed yams or jellied cranberries yourself, or to buy them in cans?"

Be on the lookout for special holiday packaging that drives up the cost of some foods. "Watch out for plum pudding in a Christmas box that cost more than the same product in a plain box," Furry said.

In addition to price, you should pay attention to ingredients, according to Furry. "For instance, self-basting turkeys may contain water, flavor enhancers, colors and other ingredients," she said. "You pay more for less meat when a turkey is self-basting. Also, an item may not be kosher, even if it's found in a kosher-style display. You have to read the label to be sure."

To ensure freshness, check the "sell by" date on the label. "The dates on packages will give you a clue about how long perishable foods such as milk, cream or cottage cheese and eggs will stay fresh in your refrigerator," said Furry.

To save money and preparation time, Furry recommends alternatives to the rich desserts often served during the holidays. "Pies, cakes and other high-fat desserts aren't necessarily the best or most healthful way to finish a heavy meal," she said. "Why not consider seasonal fresh fruit with shredded coconut instead?"

Feed The Hungry

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — From now through December 31, grocery shoppers have a chance to feed and shelter the homeless and needy countians.

Participating grocery stores in the Feed the Hungry campaign, will display coupons worth $1.44 at the cash registers. Customers who wish to contribute that amount, which is the average cost of a meal at Water Street Rescue Mission, can tear off the coupon and hand it to the cashier.

The cashire will then scan the amount into the cash register like other grocery items, adding $1.44 to the customer's bill.

The stores will forward the collected funds to the Mission.

Participating stores include Darrenkamp's Country Market, Ferguson and Hassler, Fox's Markets, Jay's Supermarkets, John Herr's Village Market, Musser's Market, Oregon Dairy, Shady Maple Farm Market, Willow Valley Market, and Yoder's Country Market.

QUESTION — Evelyn Michaels, Beaver, asks if anyone remembers Ole Old, a type of linament made by Dr. Peter Farhney and Sons Company in N.Y. City. It contained camphor, oil of cloves, sassafras, and turpentine. The Swedish/Finnish community in Tioga County used it widely from the 1930s to the 1960s. Evelyn has asked telephone operators in the calling areas 212, 718, 917, and 914, for telephone listings for the company but no listing exists in those areas. Does anyone know a supplier?

ANSWER — Teresa Wenger, Elizabethtown, wanted to know where she can purchase bee's wax to make candles. Thanks to Bob Hughes, who writes that he handles all the supplies needed to make beeswax candles. He also will be teaching an adult evening course on it at Garden Spot High School, starting in January. His address is Rainbow Apiaries, 668 Turkey Hill Rd., East Earl, PA 17519. Or, call (717) 445-6674.

ANSWER — George Rockes, Ruffsdale, has an answer for Nelson Austin, Shinglehouse, who wanted to know how to dry black walnuts. Rockes writes that he puts about five gallons of walnuts in a feed sake and lays them on the driveway. He drives his pick up over them a few times until he thinks they are all crushed. Then he dumps out the walnuts and picks up the nuts, puts them in a tub of water tp wash them, and lays them in the sun or on a shed roof to dry.

Jan Steck, Knoxville, IL, was named the National Shorthorn Lassie President. Steck had served the past year as the National Queen Coordinator.

Taking over the vice president duties is Patricia Williams, Binger, OK. Williams had served the past two years as the membership chairperson.

Tiffany Henry, Sadorus, IL, was elected to finish out a term vacated by Kay Good, Bamard, KS. Henry, the 1993 National Shorthorn Lassie Queen, will take over the responsibilities as the National Queen Chairman.

Carolyn Evans, Union City, IN, was elected to the board and will serve as the membership committee chairperson. Evans was a 1994 recipient of the Lassie of the Year award and former board member.

Benedict Crowned National Polled Hereford Queen

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Nicole Benedict, Mason City, Ill., was crowned the National Polled Hereford Queen during the American Polled Hereford Association's (APHA) 72nd National Convention, Show and Sale on Nov. 4 in Kansas City, Mo. Jennifer North, Sperry, Okla., was the contest's first runner-up and second runner-up was Shannon Boozman, Rogers, Ark. Beth Oltman, Mt. Horeb, Wis., and Julie Kiko, Magnolia, Ohio, shared the Miss Congeniality award.

National Polled Hereford Queen Nicole Benedict

On the same cold February night that 19-year-old Nicole Benedict was born, one of her family's Polled Hereford cows gave birth to twins. That omen proved to be true, and the breed has been a part of Benedict's life ever since. A fourth-generation Polled Hereford breeder, Benedict helps operate Benedict Herefords with her family, mom and dad, Larry and Judie; brother, Chad; and sister, Kimberly. She has served as an officer and director in the Illinois Junior Polled Hereford Association (PHA), as well as state Polled Hereford queen and princess. She participated in the 20th Junior National and was a member of the 22nd Junior National's winning senior team marketing team. Now a sophomore at Monmouth College, Benedict is studying communications with a minor in Spanish with the goal of promoting the beef industry as a public relations professional. She belongs to the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and the women's track and field team, and registers on the Dean's list.

First Runner-Up Jennifer North

"Mom, Dad, I want a calf." With those words, Jennifer North began in the Polled Hereford business six years ago. Since then, North's herd has grown to 10 cow-calf pairs and her enthusiasm for the breed and beef cattle industry has infused her goals. A junior at Oklahoma State University, North is pursuing degrees in both animal science and agricultural education and plans to teach high school agricultural education after graduation. An enthusiastic Oklahoma Junior PHA member, North has served as the state's Polled Hereford queen. She competed in the 19th Junior National's National Illustrated Speech Contest and was a member of the champion senior beef bowl team at the 21st Junior National. North is the 20-year-old daughter of Henry and Pat North and has one sister, Jolene.

Second Runner-Up Shannon Boozman

Shannon Boozman says she has come a long way from being a city kid offended by the cattle barn perfume. From her list of accomplishments, she' s right. Educating the public about Polled Herefords and the beef industry is her focus; to do that she has become involved in the Arkansas Junior PHA, served as an officer, competed at the past five Junior Nationals and represented breeders as the state's Polled Hereford queen. Competing in speech contests, helping organize state-wide Polled Hereford events and exhibiting her cattle have also helped her educate herself about the breed. Boozman, 17, is a senior at Rogers High School. She is the daughter of John and Cathy Boozman and has two sisters.

Miss Congeniality Beth Oltman

Beth Oltman was born into the cattle business, and that lifelong involvement has not only helped pay for her college education, but fueled her desire to continue involvement with Polled Herefords. Oltman has served as a director and officer of the organization, participated in the 1993 PRIDE Congress and represented Wisconsin breeders as their state Polled Hereford queen and princess. She competed in her first Junior National in 1988 and her involvement on winning team marketing, judging, state exhibit, scrapbook and sweepstakes teams have highlighted the seven attended by Oltman since then. A freshman in architecture at the University of Wisconsin Madison, Oltman is the 18-year-old daughter of John and Chris Oltman.

Miss Congeniality Julie Kiko

From the time she could walk, Julie Kiko has been in the barn helping with her family' s Polled Hereford herd. Her lifelong commitment to the breed is evident by her enthusiastic involvement in the Buckeye Junior PHA, tenure as the state's princess and queen, participation in the 22nd Junior National and 4-H achievements. Kiko's goals include working on a Polled Hereford operation and one day developing her own herd. The 18-year-old daughter of Eugene and Louise Kiko, she has one brother and one sister. After graduating from Sandy Valley High School this spring, Kiko plans to attend the Agriculture Technical Institute in Wooster, Ohio, to further her education in beef breeding.

Dairy-Map Program To Expand With Ag Business Support

UNIVERSITY PARK, (Centre Co.) — A program to help boost the profitability of Pennsylvania's dairy farms is expanding this year with help from state agribusinesses.

Dairy-MAP was developed in 1993 by a multi-disciplinary team in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. The program is designed to help producers increase their competitive advantage by providing up-to-date business management information tailored specifically for the dairy industry.

"Each year, hundreds of Pennsylvania dairy farms go out of business," says Dr. Lisa Holden, Dairy-MAP coordinator and assistant professor of dairy science. "Dairy farming is a business, and sharp business skills are just as vital to the bottom line as getting the chores done."

That message isn't wasted on farm organizations, creditors, feed and equipment dealers and other groups concerned with the vitality of the state's dairy industry. Two committees composed of representatives of farm businesses are helping to inform people about the purpose and scope of the program and to solicit financial support.

"It is unlikely that milk prices will rise, so there's a real need for a program like Dairy-MAP that helps dairy farmers help themselves," says Brenda Shambaugh, legislative director for the Pennsylvania State Grange and head of Dairy-MAP's finance committee.

"Dairy-MAP workshops drive home the message that good management is essential for successful farming," says Harold Shaulis, a Somerset County dairy farmer.

Many organizations and groups have taken an active role in promoting and broadening the Dairy-MAP program, including the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, the Pennsylvania State Grange, Pennsylvania Farm Credit, the Pennsylvania Holstein Association and others.

The next round of Dairy-MAP workshops will begin in January 1995 and will be held at least through March. The program's core workshop, Managing for Success (MFS), applies general business management techniques to the dairy business.

"We want to teach skills, not give easy answers," Holden says. "Participants are expected to solve problems, make plans and define goals. They can begin to apply these techniques to actual farm problems immediately."

Each Dairy-MAP workshop involves six to eight hours of learning, split over two sessions held one week apart. Between sessions, participants do homework to help them begin applying business concepts on the farm.

Workshops that take a detailed look at financial management also will be offered in 1995. Participants in this workshop will prepare financial statements, analyze their finances and create a business plan. "A common thread among failed small businesses is the lack of a good plan," Holden notes.

For a Dairy-MAP brochure and more information about workshops offered in your area in 1995, contact your county's Penn State Cooperative Extension Office.

Colossal Cheese Challenge Draws 18 Million Viewers

ROSEMONT, Ill. — When 18 million people watch a cheese sandwich being made and eaten, you know it has to be some kind of sandwich.

It was. Billed as the world's longest cheese hero sandwich, the 75-foot-long creation was the focal media event of the American Dairy Associations (ADA) fall cheese tailgating promotion. The sandwich also celebrated the 75th anniversary of the National Football League as it took shape October 9 adjacent to Chicago's Soldier Field before the Bears/Saints football game.

Called the Colossal Cheese Challenge, the charity event involved nearly 100 Chicago youngsters from two youth organizations who built the monster sandwich, then had five minutes to see which team could eat the most of it. Considering the sandwich weighed about 400 pounds and included four different kinds of cheese, this was no small order.

Hosted by former Chicago Bears All-Pro Running Back Neal Anderson, the Colossal Cheese Challenge ended in a tie that resulted in donations from ADA to both the Chicago Boys and Girls Clubs and the Campaign for a Drug-Free West Side. Individual team members also received a package of gifts.

Patz®

Patz®

15 YEAR WARRANTY

Manufactured in Pound, Wisconsin

Does this look familiar? If not, check it out.

Remember the winter of '94?

Here is something often overlooked...

Only Patz gives you 45 years of experience with hook-and-eye chain, resulting in a chain so good that others are attempting to copy it.

Many Patz Gutter Cleaner chains are still working well after more than 30 years of use.

After the Patz patent on hook-and-eye chain expired, some other companies have attempted to copy the Patz chain Some promote 10- and 12-year warranties on chain—but they have not yet had 10 or 12 years of experience with hook-and-eye chain

Patz has continued to improve its chain for 45 years with special-formula steel, special forging techniques and special steel hardening processes

Rely on the proven, long-life chain. Patz provides a 15-year chain warranty because so many chains are working well long after 15 years of use

Better yet, your Patz chain warranty is backed up by a solid, reliable company that has been serving farmers for 45 years with the same family ownership

Insist on Patz chain!

What thousands of dairyman know: Patz chain is your best buy!

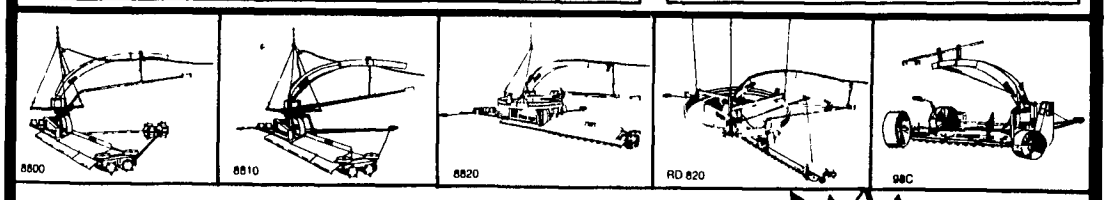
Affordable Financing from Patz Financial Services

Frozen silage? No problem!

For frozen silage and hard-packed haylage, the Patz cutter-and-claw gathering chain outperforms augers. This time-proven chain with its chain-saw cutting action cuts out frozen silage aggressively. Shouldn't your next unloader have a gathering chain?

The Model RD-820 Silo Unloader features:

RING-DRIVE: With the roller-chain ring drive, only one motor powers the machine.
AUTOMATIC LOWERING OPTION: A winch lowers the RD-820 automatically after each complete revolution.
POWER CUTTER: Spring tension keeps high-speed, self-sharpening blades tight to the silo wall to shave it clean.
TORQUE LIMITER: Ratchet-pin design protects the ring and drive system while working through tough conditions.
Affordable financing directly from Patz.



The full unloader line....

Patz gives you dual-auger unloaders and gathering-chain unloaders plus choice of surface-drive or ring drive/center drive.

PENpages Can Help You Find Facts Fast

UNIVERSITY PARK, (Centre Co.) — Looking for information on child care, money management, farm and home safety or agricultural statistics? What about low-fat cooking, nutrition guidelines or animal welfare?

Try PENpages, a computer-based library of consumer and agricultural information operated and maintained by Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. The free service can be accessed by dialing a local telephone number in Pennsylvania counties, and also can be accessed internationally via the Internet.

PENpages is devoted to agriculture-related information that encompasses an amazingly wide range of subjects. PENpages contains practical information on topics from conserving water to storing winter clothing.

PENpages is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week. All you need is a computer, communications software and a modem connected to a telephone line. In Pennsylvania, PENpages is accessed by dialing a special telephone number in each county. Most users have toll-free access.

Much of the information is generated by experts in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. Other contributors include the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Penn State's College of Health and Human Development and Nutrition Center, Cornell University, Ohio State University, and West Virginia University.

There are six national databases in PENpages. IFAN, the International Food and Nutrition Database was established in 1992 and now has over 1,700 articles on all aspects of human nutrition. MAPP, the Family and Economic Well-Being National Database, was established in 1986 in support of the USDA Extension Services Family Economic Well-Being National Initiative.

MAPP features information on stress management, family economics, individual development, child care and other family issues. Dr. James Van Horn, professor of rural sociology at Penn State and a syndicated Associated Press columnist, compiles and edits the documents appearing in MAPP from specialists throughout the country.

Information on aging issues can be found in the Senior Series Database, and information on rural health issues is located in the Rural Health Database. For youth issues, search the AH and Youth Development Database and for information on diversity topics, try the USDA-sponsored Cooperative Extension Service National Diversity and Pluralism Database.

Several state agencies also supply information for PENpages. The Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service (PASS), a division of the state and federal departments of agriculture, compiles information on all major Pennsylvania agricultural commodities. This information is placed in PENpages and relayed to USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service for inclusion in national statistics.

PASS is one of four PDA bureaus that place information in PENpages. The Bureau of Plant Industry puts a monthly plant pest update on the system, and the Bureau of Market Development posts current market and auction prices for livestock and produce The PDA press office adds news and current information to the database.

People interested in using PENpages can obtain a free User Guide from the local Penn State Cooperative Extension office. The guide provides step-by-step instructions and local telephone numbers to call for each county. People who live outside Pennsylvania can obtain a User Guide by writing to Computer Services, 405 Agricultural Administration Building, University Park, PA 16802 or by calling (814) 863-3449.

Surprises By Mail

CREAMERY (Montgomery Co.) — Most of us like getting packages in the mail, but food shipped by mail needs special handling to avoid a real surprise — foodborne illness. This year, if you are the sender or the receiver, please follow safe food handling procedures. Annette Goodling of Montgomery County Cooperative Extension offers these food handling tips for perishable foods such as smoked turkey, cheese, and sausage gift packs.

TIPS FOR THE PURCHASER (SENDER)

• Check with the company — How the gift will be packaged? It should be packed in foam or heavy corrugated cardboard. If it's a perishable item like meat or poultry, it should be cold or frozen and packed with a cold source like the frozen gel packs.

• Speedy delivery — How the food will be shipped? If it's a perishable item, it should be delivered as quickly as possible, ideally, overnight. Make sure perishable items and the outer package are labeled "KEEP REFRIGERATED" to alert the recipient.

• Storage and preparation instructions — Will the food item come with storage and preparation instructions? Some mail order food gift items are of an unusual nature and some consumers may not know how to handle or prepare them.

• Arrange a delivery date — Tell the recipient if the company has promised a delivery date, or alert the recipient that "the gift is in the mail" so that they or a neighbor can be home to receive it. Otherwise it may sit unsafely on the front porch or at the post office for hours or even days. Don't have perishable items delivered to an office unless you know it will arrive on a work day and there's refrigerator space available for keeping it cold.

TIPS FOR THE RECEIVER

• Check the temperature — When you receive a food item marked "Keep Refrigerated," open it immediately and check its temperature. Optimally, the food should arrive frozen or partially frozen with ice crystals still visible, or at least, refrigerator cold to the touch. If perishable food arrives warm notify the company if you think you deserve a refund. DO NOT eat the food. But remember, it's the shipper's responsibility to deliver perishable foods on time. It's the customer's responsibility to have someone at home to receive the package.

• Keep it cold — Refrigerate or freeze perishable items immediately. Even if a product is partially defrosted it is safe to freeze it, although there may be a slight loss of quality.

TIPS FOR THE MAIL-IT-YOURSELFER

• Pack it safely — Perishable foods will stay at a safe temperature longer if frozen solid first. After frozen, pack your food gift with a cold source such as a frozen gel pack or purchased dry ice.

• Use a sturdy box — pack your frozen food and cold source in a sturdy box, such as heavy foam or corrugated cardboard. Fill up any empty space with crushed paper or foam "popcorn." Air space in the box will cause the food and cold source to thaw faster.

• Label it perishable — Your package should be clearly labeled "Perishable - Keep Refrigerated." As in "Tips for the Purchaser," above, arrange a delivery date with the recipient. Ship your package by overnight delivery.

Mushroom Industry Scientist Donates Papers To Penn State

UNIVERSITY PARK, (Centre Co.) — A man who could easily be described as "the Henry Ford of mushroom science" has donated part of his personal library to Penn State's Mushroom Spawn Laboratory, giving the College of Agricultural Sciences an invaluable historical resource for students.

James W. Sinden, 92, was a professor of botany at Penn State from 1930 until he resigned in 1952 to work for the Hauser Champignon Laboratorium in Zurich, Switzerland. In 1932, Sinden developed and patented a grain spawn — simply put, a seeding system to grow mushrooms — that revolutionized the mushroom industry.

Previously, farmers had grown mushrooms using a manure spawn that was shaped into a brick and dried. Farmers broke off bits of the brick and planted them. The Sinden grain spawn, which used rye grain that had been colonized by mushroom fungus, could be sown like seed and covered a much wider area for growth. Sinden used rye because that grain worked better as a vehicle for the mushroom spawn.

"The grain spawn improved productivity and it didn't take as long for the crop to grow. It also was much less costly than previous products," explains Dr. Paul Wuest, professor of plant pathology.

Sinden's patent brought in $150,000 in royalties to the university. The money earned during the 17-year life of the patent was used to help form the Pennsylvania Research Corporation, which handled patents for Penn State faculty members.

"It was probably the most successful patent ever issued from Penn State," Wuest says.

Sinden also developed a synthetic compost in 1948 to replace the horse manure compost then in use and has identified fungicides to treat mushroom diseases.

The material Sinden donated to the university generally dates from 1923 to 19S2. Such documents as research reports, written lectures, reprints of Sinden's articles from scholarly journals, photographs and even telegrams are included. A large percentage of the material is correspondence.

"Although he was working in the mushroom industry, he always took a scholarly approach to research, and this correspondence to other scientists and mushroom growers is invaluable to get a historical perspective on the mushroom industry," Wuest says.

Although the information is accessible through Pattee Library at University Park, Sinden asked that the collection be stored in the mushroom spawn lab in 117 Buckhout Laboratory.

The monetary value of Sinden's gift is unknown, but the collection is a rich source of information for mushroom researchers, Wuest says. "There are references to mushroom pests, mushroom composts and other related topics that open the science of another era to today's researchers," Wuest adds.

The Sinden material helps document the modernization of the mushroom industry, illuminates the history of mycology, and records Penn State's ties to commercial agriculture. Sinden's gift, coupled with the papers of Leon Kneebone, Sinden's successor, gives the university a detailed record of Penn State's contributions to mushroom research.

As the Holiday Season approaches, finishing up a record grain harvest, we reflect on Thanksgiving. We sure have a lot to be thankful for this year, a record crop, good weather to harvest and get the ground worked, made for a pretty smooth fall

I would like to take a moment to thank those who have made the auctions this past year go smooth, let's see, we have the auctioneers, clerks, people from church serving food, advertising people, secretaries, loader operators, truck drivers, consigners, and of course the buyers. Without this group of people, the absolute auction way would not work and I'm very thankful for your support this past year and look forward to seeing you in the future.

Now for the future, our sale on Tuesday, December 27 will be our first time off Wednesday, so make a note of the date change. Our "severe bad weather" date is January 11, 1995. Please call for conditions

This auction only accepts items that will be sold without reserve or without minimum bid, and that is how they are advertised. The law in Illinois in regards to auctions without reserve state that once an item is put up for sale, it must be sold without the owner or someone on the owners behalf bidding on it. Due to early deadlines, this ad was written on December 2, 1994 Much more equipment will be added by sale day. We have bank closeout equipment, farmers retiring, and individuals listed. Machinery, tractors, and combines will be mixed. We will start selling machinery at about 10:00 A M. All equipment sells absolute without reserve or minimum. Excellent lunch provided by First Reform Church of Wichert Mission Committee and members. Proceeds go to Youth for Christ and the Church of the Goodnews We have delivery available to anywhere in the USA or Canada, open 6 days a week Look forward to seeing you on December 27, 1994 I want to wish everyone a merry, merry Christmas and a happy, safe New Year

Absentee Bidding and Cellular bidding to be handled in confidence.

Christmas Thoughts

Let us keep Christmas, its meaning never ends... the time of year to wish happiness and good will to friends and loved ones, near and far... the time to share the joys of the past and the hopes of the future, and to remember all we have to be thankful for. If we can do this for a day, why not forever?

Let us keep the true spirit of Christmas. Today, tomorrow and always.

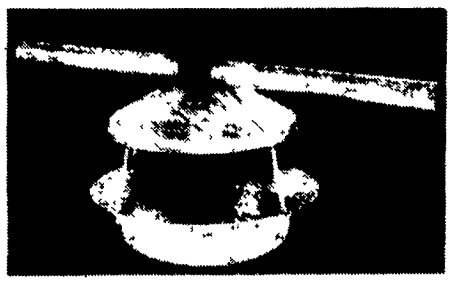
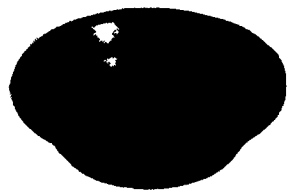
Cumberland

TURKEY PAN FEEDING SYSTEMS



SIMPLY THE LEADER

Cumberland continues being the leader in the manufacturing of poultry equipment by introducing a turkey feeding system for every application. Cumberland's Turkey Feeders have revolutionary features which make them both profitable and easy to maintain for the end customer. Cumberland Feeders deliver feed economically, efficiently, and dependably with savings for the grower. The Cumberland Turkey Pan Feeding System offers a poult turkey pan for young turkeys and two models of adult turkey pans, designed to withstand the rugged treatment of adult turkeys through grow-out.



NEW PLASTIC PAN

Easier to clean... non-corrosive... lighter.. Cumberland's plastic pan for both STF and RTF Adult Pan Feeders features improved structural engineering with stronger support gussets, a more durable and effective "hanger" for cleaning and a unique set of two feed-saving "catch walls" that significantly reduce raking and billout.

The HI-LO Pan Feeder

A Two Stage Pan

The first 7-10 days of a broiler's life are critical. The eating habits they develop then establish their growth pattern for life.

For these very young birds the Cumberland HI-LO Pan Feeder, resting on the house floor, presents a lip height of 2.1" (the average height of traditional "chick lids"). Because they can easily and safely get in and out of the pan, they're eating out of the pan from day one.

And because the pan needn't be "flooded," they're getting only fresh feed... and only as much as they need.

Then as the birds grow, and the feed line is raised, the Cumberland HI-LO Pan Feeder E-X-P-A-N-D-S into a 3.5" deep adult bird pan!

The higher wall and feed saver lip prevent waste from raking and billout... and cause the birds to eat nearer the outside edge of the pan, assuring a more even "first in, first out" utilization of feed (which also saves feed and maintains freshness).

POULTRY DUST HAZARDS

Dr. Dennis J. Murphy
Professor Of Agricultural & Biological Engineering

Several sources of dust exist in most poultry houses, including bird feathers and dander, dried urine and feces, insect parts and feed grains. Dust particles can be particularly threatening during winter months, when poultry houses are likely to be closed more tightly and workers spend more time indoors.

Harmful molds, bacteria, proteins, and endotoxins may attach themselves to tiny, invisible dust particles. Very small particles of dust are often referred to as "respirable dust."

As this term implies, respirable dust is breathed in during normal breathing. Harmful dust breathed deeply into the lungs is also referred to as "toxic dust."

Toxic dust can cause an abrasive irritation to the inside of the lungs, a condition known as "pneumonconiosis." As more dust is inhaled, irritating an already severe condition, the lung's efficiency is reduced. This becomes a chronic or long-term disability, which adversely affects energy and exertion levels. Farmers of any age with this condition may not have the ability to accomplish farm tasks that require an increased level of strength and endurance.

More serious effects from breathing in toxic dust over several years includes organic dust toxic syndrome, or ODTS. This illness has flu-like symptoms such as fever, headache, and muscular pains. The symptoms usually appear four to six hours after exposure to the dust, and may lead to hospitalization for severe respiratory distress. Studies have revealed that many poultry farmers have excessive dust inhalation symptoms, including burning eyes, runny nose, scratchy throat, abnormal production of sputum and phlegm, and excessive coughing.

All farmers and farm workers should use personal protective equipment when working in dusty buildings. Use respirators approved by the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH). If a respirator is approved by NIOSH, you will be able to find a registration number preceded by the prefix "TC" somewhere on the respirator. An easy way to quickly verify that a respirator is approved is to count its straps. All approved respirators have two straps. The single-strap dust mask commonly found in many stores is not approved by NIOSH — nor is it effective at protecting the wearer from respirable dust.

It is always better to prevent respiratory problems than to try and minimize their effects after some damage has been done. Even if you have not experienced symptoms of respirable dust inhalation, you should always use personal protective equipment when working in poultry houses.

Use a properly fitted and maintained respirator. Farmers who have beards or wear glasses should be particularly careful to fit respirators properly. However, if you have extenuating medical conditions such as heart and/or lung problems, including allergies, asthma or high blood pressure, check with your doctor to find out whether you can safely wear a respirator.

One type of respirator that appears to be increasingly popular in poultry houses is the powered air-purifying respirator (PAPR). A PAPR is simply an air-purifying respirator with a motorized blower that forces air through a filtering device. It makes breathing easier for the wearer, so this type of respirator may be recommended by a doctor for someone with a minor respiratory or cardiovascular ailment. They tend to be cooler, too, because they provide a constant stream of air over the wearer's face and head. Many PAPRs have a hard helmet and rigid visor under which the air is blown. There are also half-mask and full-face models, as well as models with non-rigid helmets.

A PAPR can protect you from dusts, mists, gases, and vapors — provided you equip it with the right filters. The blower is powered by a battery pack strapped onto the wearer's waist or back. Rechargeable or disposable D-cell batteries can be used, and most batteries last 6-8 hours. You also can use a 12V or 24V DC adapter, which will run the blower from a vehicle battery.

Respirator prices vary considerably depending on the type you need. Disposable mechanical filter respirators can be bought for under $10. Many non-disposable models cost less than $50. A PAPR may range in price from $100 to $500.

No matter which type of respirator is most appropriate for you, the cost of the respirator is insignificant compared to the cost of medicines, doctor visits, hospital stays, and human suffering caused by respiration ailments.

Consolidation Proposal Would Eliminate Waste

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Beef industry leaders spoke out in favor of a plan that would consolidate the four major beef organizations into a single, unified organization, saying the effort will help producers more effectively meet consumer demands through efficient use of checkoff dollars and dues funds.

Members of the Beef Oversight Committee—the group charged with implementing the consolidation of the National Cattlemen's Association, Beef Industry Council, U.S. Meat Export Federation and Cattlemen's Beef Board—addressed broadcast journalists at the recent National Association of Farm Broadcasters convention in Kansas City.

The panelists said that the proposal will enable the industry to spend dollars more efficiently on programs that directly benefit producers—instead of on administrative overhead or duplication of effort as is currently the case. They underscored that, even by conservative estimates, the proposed restructuring would save cattle producers $2.5 million annually. "That's $2.5 million that can be put into programs to build demand for beef in a coordinated, focused, cost-effective approach," said panelist Monte Reese, CEO of the Beef Board.

Committee members explained that the process leading to the plan's development began two years ago when officers of each of the four organizations together embarked in formulating the industry's long-range plan. They stated that much of the motivation behind the effort came from increasing competition from pork and poultry and subsequent decreasing domestic market share for beef.

"I don't believe the beef industry can afford to have four of everything," said panelist Virgil Huseman, a cattle producer from Ellsworth, Kan., and a member of the task force which developed the long range plan. "We now have four sets of committees, four boards of directors, four sets of officers and four different staffs. The governance structure that we have forces conflict between the various organizations—especially over the use of checkoff dollars. And the industry desperately needs to speak with one voice on issues confronting beef production."

Panelist Robert Foster, a dairy producer from Middlebury, Vt., said that the vast majority of dairy and veal producers back the plan, seeing it as a vehicle that will improve profitability for all segments involved in beef production. "As a dairy producer, I am comfortable with the expanded voice that my industry has had and will have in the new organization," Foster said. "I think we owe it to the grassroots producer, whether he or she be a cattleman, dairyman or a veal grower, to see that we most effectively, efficiently and productively use the dollars that are contributed either by dues or checkoff. I firmly believe that a consolidated structure is the correct move for the beef industry today."

Foster said that a recent national survey of cattlemen, dairymen and veal producers, indicated that 68 percent of dairymen support a consolidated industry organization structure.

Panelists emphasized that the oversight committee has given extensive consideration to legal issues, separation of dues from checkoff funds, equitable representation, appropriate fees for membership, and a host of other details. Checkoff dollars, for example, cannot be used for lobbying purposes, and the committee has built appropriate checks and balances into the proposed structure to ensure no overlap between dues and checkoff dollars occurs.

Under the proposed structure, state beef councils will lose none of their autonomy and authority for local expenditures of checkoff dollars; at the same time, they will gain greater authority over the use of checkoff dollars at the national level.

All four of the industry organizations have endorsed the concept of the long-range plan and are participating in the oversight committee's implementation of the plan. The organizations will vote on a consolidated structure proposal before January 30.

The oversight committee was formed to initiate the implementation of the Beef Industry Long-Range Plan and facilitate the investigation of the consolidated structure. The oversight committee consists of three elected officers and the CEO from each of the four major beef industry organizations (BIC, NCA, MEF and CBB) plus four at-large members elected from the Beef Industry Long-Range Planning Task Force, for a total of 20 members.

Serving on the Oversight Committee are Rick Allen, Wyo.; Ralph "Buck" Bell, Jr., S.C.; Bob Carter, Texas; Ron Curtis, Iowa; Max Deets, Kan.; Bob Drake, Okla.; Burton Eller, Colo.; Robert Foster, Vt.; Mardie Hanson, Colo.; John Huston, Ill.; Dan Koons, Ill.; Jack Maddux, Neb.; James A. Mullins, Iowa; Ellard "Butch" Pfaelzer, Ill.; Monte Reese, Colo.; Phil Seng, Denver, Colo.; Roger Stuber, N.D.; Jim Webb, Ariz.; Clark S. Willingham, Texas; and Dave Wood, Calif.

President Addresses Ag's Future

CALLICOON, N.Y. — In his last annual address as leader of the state's leading farm and rural advocacy group, N.Y. Farm Bureau President Charles Wille challenged the state's farmers to seek out new agricultural opportunities, take advantage of cutting edge science and technology, work to protect the rights of private property owners, and improve relations with non-farm neighbors.

Wille said that "the growing regulatory climate, at the state and local level, with its fines and legal challenges, is destroying the industry it is trying to keep." He reported that Farm Bureau "will have to stay vigilant at all levels to protect our farmers' interest and property rights in the years ahead."

"The farmer of tomorrow knows full well that knowledge is the key to future success," said Wille. "Farm Bureau can play an important role in assuring science to be the farmer's friend. Research and the delivery of the research findings to the farm must receive ample funding in the years ahead, if the American farmer is to maintain a competitive edge in our world markets."

The Farm Bureau president said that science and technology is already benefiting agriculture, yet there is a need to be cautious. As an example of an advance, he cited the Global Informational Systems (GIS), a system which uses satellite imaging to determine crop yields and fertilizer needs. He said, "However, this same technique can locate...items which historically we have considered private. Farm Bureau is presently addressing farmers' rights in regards to this new system."

Speaking to farmers, Wille said that in the years to come, "Neighbor relations skills will be essential. The farmer of tomorrow will have to be a good neighbor."

Wille, who has been president of the 25,000 member New York Farm Bureau since December 1985, decided not to seek re-election. His address also cited the many accomplishments of the organization during his tenure, including the signing of the Agricultural Protection Act of 1992 and the recent repeal of the petroleum business tax on fuels used in farm production.

Will American Family Farm Disappear?

CHICAGO, Ill. — American family farmers stand at the most critical time in history and must begin planning for the future or face extinction, warns John Deere Life Insurance Co.

"The number of family farms in this country has fallen below two million for the first time since the Civil War, and with the new Republican Congress taking a close look at farm subsidies, farmers must put their financial houses in order or we'll be talking about farmers in the past tense," said Larry Nelson, JDL's vice president of marketing.

Nelson said family farmers are masters at "rolling with the punches" but said they can take nothing for granted.

"A generation ago, passing on the family farm often meant nothing more than drafting a simple will," he said. "Farm profit margins were higher, land values were lower, tax rates were comparatively insignificant, and family succession was more predictable. The high-tax, low profit, always volatile environment of today creates unique problems which threaten the survival of the family farm."

Nelson said several major reasons why the number of family farms is dropping have to do with communications within the family.

"Many farmers still find it difficult to discuss passing on the farm to the next generation," he said. "Recent studies have shown that about two-thirds of all farmers do not have a valid succession plan in place. When a farmer dies, the federal estate tax bill often runs into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. without a succession plan, heirs can be forced to sell off land or equipment just to pay the tax bill. Even with enough cash, the farm also may still face a break-up by heirs not living on the property who want their share in cash. How a farmer deals with these and other issues, depends on knowing what you want, talking it out openly with your family, and finding the specialists that can make your wishes happen."

Nelson adds that many children of farmers decide to go into other occupations because the family does not talk about the future or because the farmer thinks he can't pass on the farm without saddling the successor with a lot of debt.

"That's one of the saddest myths," said Nelson. "A properly funded succession plan can make it possible to pass a farm to the next generation with very little debt. There should never be a situation in which a family loses the farm because of poor planning."

He said the new Republican Congress will be passing a new farm bill next year, and likely cuts in farms subsidies will mean more fluctuation in crop prices which will affect incomes and land values.

"This makes planning now all the more crucial," Nelson said. "However, if a family selects its advisors carefully and allows enough time to get it done right, a succession plan can meet everyone's needs in a fair manner and keep the farm intact and in the family."

Department Nets Grant At U. Of Nitra

NEWARK, Del. — A decade-long collaboration between the University of Delaware and the University of Agriculture in Nitra, Slovakia, has led to a USIA grant that will assist Slovakia in its transition from a centralized economy to a market-driven one.

Dr. Joachim Elterich, professor in the department of food and resource economics and director of university operations research program, received a two-year, $300,000 U.S. Information Agency grant to bring Western business management education and extension to the University of Agriculture in Nitra.

The grant proposal, developed with Dr. Catherine Halbrendt and Richard Bacon, also from the department, and graduate students Darina Batkova, Fe Zinnia Albay and Julia Farkasova, includes courses in business management, international trade and marketing, contracting, community development, macroeconomic impacts and communications. Eight educators from the University of Delaware College of Agricultural Sciences, Delaware State University and the private sector will teach intensive courses in eight, three-week modules in the spring of 1995.

This January, a group of Slovakian educators will visit the University of Delaware to be exposed to Western-style curriculum, culture and agricultural industry. They will also attend the Allied Social Sciences Conference in Washington, D.C.

As director of the project, Elterich will work in Slovakia throughout the term of the grant creating an extension-style agricultural management center. Through the University of Nitra, the center will provide practical knowledge and problem-solving services for medium and small-scale businesses, as well as outreach to other parts of the country.

Penn State Soil Judging Team Places Second

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The Penn State Student Soil Judging Team recently placed a close second behind Cornell University in the 1994 Northeast Collegiate Soil Judging Contest, hosted by the University of Rhode Island. The team now qualifies for the National Collegiate Soil Judging Contest to be held in Missouri.

Members of the winning team are Michael Brown, Alex Dado, Amy Loch and Tracy Szathmary. Tracy Szathmary and Alex Dado placed ninth and 10th as individuals.

The regional and national competitions, which are hosted by different universities each year, provide students with a unique opportunity to see soils from different areas of the country, classify them and make interpretations for different land uses.

Students prepare for the contest by taking Soils 100, a one-credit, field-oriented class taught by graduate students Christine Manns and Keith Goyne, who also coach the soil judging team. Students learn to describe and classify soils in the field and to recognize properties that affect uses, such as waste disposal and water movement.

Dealer Sees Latest Products

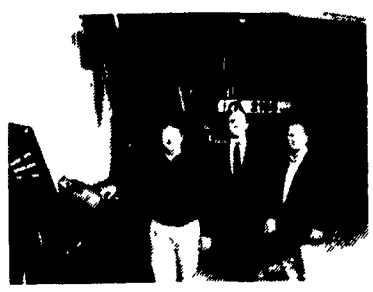
ST. LOUIS, Mo. — C.B. Hoober of C. B. Hoober & Son in Intercourse, Pa., and Middletown, Del., was here for an in-depth look at the latest in Case IH agricultural equipment.

Among other products, Hoober saw the next generation of Case IH Axial-Flow® combines.

The first Axial-Flow combines, introduced nearly 20 years ago, redefined a good harvest, providing better quality grain and more of it from an exceptionally dependable machine.

Hoober explained that the new 2144, 2166, and 2188 combines feature an all-new cab, as well as upgraded electronics, hydraulics and power train. "I'm looking forward to getting these out in the field with my customers," he said.

At the dealer meeting, Hoober received an update on Case, including its business and product-development plans.



C. B. Hoober of C. B. Hoober in Intercourse, Pa., and Middletown , Del. , (pictured here with Dick Bomberger and Tom Yohe) attended Case IH dealer business meetings in St. Louis, and was among the first to see the new 2100 Series Axial-Flow combines, which feature an all-new cab, as well as upgraded electronics, hydraulics, and power train.

Pfizer To Acquire Animal Health Business

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Pfizer Inc., agreed to acquire SmithKline Beecham Animal Health (SBAH) for $1.45 billion, Pfizer announced.

The acquisition will offer Pfizer additional opportunities to capitalize on its current product line and innovative research and development capability.

In 1993, Pfizer and SmithKline Beecham had combined animal health net sales of approximately $1.2 billion.

"Pfizer is a global leader in health care," said William C. Steere, Jr., chairman and chief executive officer of Pfizer, "and this acquisition further builds on our strengths by adding SmithKline Beecham's excellence in animal vaccines and companion-animal products, and its significant animal health presence in countries that complement and expand Pfizer's current geographic reach."

"We are confident that this acquisition will help make our animal health business an increasingly important contributor to Pfizer," he said.

Pfizer markets many important livestock products, including two products recently introduced. The antiparasitic Dectomax, first launched in 1993 in Brazil (the world's second largest cattle producer), and is now available in Argentina, South Africa and, since September 1994, in the United Kingdom and Ireland. Dectomax sales are growing rapidly in response to consumer enthusiasm in the $1 billion annual global antiparasitic category.

The antibacterial Advocin, for treating livestock respiratory disease, is available in Japan and elsewhere in Asia, Latin America and Africa. In 1995, Pfizer plans 49 new-market launches of Dectomax, Advocin and Aviax, a new product for the prevention of coccidiosis, the most commercially significant disease threatening chickens.

SBAH is a world leader in animal vaccines and companion-animal health-product sales.

Pfizer's animal health products treat mainly livestock and poultry diseases. The SBAH portfolio offers leading products, including virginiamycin, for both livestock and companion animals.

Hoffman Seeds Releases Hybrids

LANDISVILLE, (Lancaster Co.) — Hoffman Seeds, Inc. has introduced five new Funk's G® brand hybrids for the 1995 planting season.

These hybrids have been produced from research efforts conducted by Ciba Seeds and Hoffman. Each new hybrid is supported by extensive field trials to verify its performance.

4193 averaged 147 bushels/acre at 23.7 percent moisture in 1993 Cornell University trials. A 90-day hybrid, it is recommended for silage or high-moisture corn and performs best as a full-season hybrid in Group 0 environments. 4193 is tolerant to rust, southern corn leaf blight, Stewart's wilt, and ear smut.

A 90-day hybrid, 4144 responds well to high management practices and is recommended for early planting. It performs well as an early hybrid in Group 2 environments and can be planted in heavier soils (muck/peat) at populations from 22,000 to 26,000 plants/acre. 4144 has good early vigor and growth.

A tall hybrid, 4214 shows excellent early vigor and growth. Recommended for early planting, this 91-day hybrid can be grown for ear corn, silage or high-moisture corn. It performs best in lighter soils at populations from 22,000 to 24,000 plants/acre. It is also recommended for no-till planting.

4254 is a 95-day hybrid offering consistent performance regardless of fertility levels or soil types. It provides tolerance to rust and giberella ear rot, while producing good stalks and roots for good standability. 4254 is recommended for planting at populations from 22,000 to 26,000 plants/acre.

4554 is a 114-day hybrid that can be used for grain, silage, ear corn or highmoisture corn. A consistent performer, it can be planted in varying soil types with populations ranging from 22,000 to 26,000 plants/acre. 4554 is recommended for no-till and produces an intermediate ear type. It offers good resistance to ear smut and tolerance to northern and southern corn leaf blights, Stewart's wilt, and common rust.

For more information on these new hybrids, call Hoffman Seeds at 1 (800) 776-7929.

Monsanto Introduces New Container

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Monsanto Company introduces a revolutionary new 2-1/2 gallon herbicide container that eliminates the foil seal and also features an innovative no-glug, no-drip design.

According to packaging engineers, the new, patented container is designed to reduce user exposure to herbicides and make herbicide handling easier and faster.

"We spent a lot of time finding out what our customers wanted," said Scott Voelker, senior packaging engineer for Monsanto. "Then we worked to design a container that would exceed their expectations. We focused on future EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) regulations, as well as current customer needs.

"The first thing we did to reduce exposure was eliminate the foil seal," said Voelker. "We replaced the foil seal with a resealable cap that not only reduces exposure during the opening process, but also eliminates spillage and leakage when the container is resealed after use."

Voelker said the no-glug pouring effect is achieved with a large airflow" handle designed with a special split inner opening. "This lets air flow back into the container at the same rate the liquid empties to create a smooth, fast-pouring action," he said.

Dekalb Releases High-Yielding Alfalfa Variety

DEKALB, Ill. — A new alfalfa variety breaks through the current genetic barriers to offer alfalfa growers more of the features they want, including higher tonnage.

Dekalb Genetics Corp. has released DK127, a new fall dormancy 3, multileaf alfalfa variety with multiple pest resistance, including high resistance to aphanomyces root rot and excellent tolerance to cool season leaf diseases.

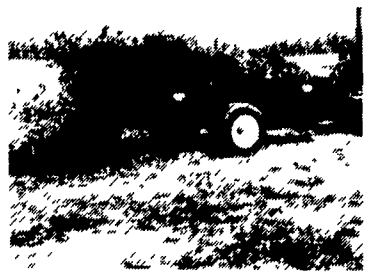
Rating 24 out of 25 on the Wisconsin disease resistance index, DK127 will perform under a wide range of conditions. In addition to high resistance to aphanomyces root rot, it shows high resistance to anthracnose, bacterial wilt, fusarium wilt, phytophthora root rot, pea aphid, and spotted alfalfa aphid. DK127 also has resistance to verticillium wilt, stem nematode, downy mildew, and lepto leaf spot and tolerance to common leaf spot. It also features exceptional winterhardiness and fast recovery after cutting. "The release of DK127 reflects Dekalb's selection priorities," said Dr. Mark Lawson, director of alfalfa research operations. "Our main selection categories include characteristics such as high-tonnage, disease resistance, feed quality and improved winterhardiness. A particular emphasis right now is aphanomyces resistance and improved winterhardiness for its dormancy rating."

Warranty On Spreader Floors

BIRD-IN-HAND (Lancaster Co.) — Millcreek Manufacturing is offering a 20-year warranty on the new floors used in its line of compact manure spreaders. The longer lasting floors add increased economy by significantly extending the life of the spreaders.

High density polyethylene derived from recycled milk containers is formed into planks similar in appearance to tongue-and-groove wood. Millcreek uses the boards to form the floors inside the spreaders, where corrosion, rust, and rot are most likely to occur.

The larger Millcreek spreaders are designed to fit through 5' doors. The smallest Model fits through 4' stable doors. With the spreader at the stall, hand-forking is greatly reduced. The spreaders, smaller versions of large agricultural units, provide small farm and horse operators with a convenient means of spreading manure on fields and solving disposal problems while recycling organic nutrients back to fields and pastures.



Millcreek offers a 20-year warranty on the floors of its Compact Manure Spreaders.

For more information, contact Joe Glick, Millcreek Manufacturing Company, 2617 Stumptown Road, Bird-in-Hand, PA 17505, 717-656-3050.

Old Guard Gets New Recognition As Insurer

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — A national personal-finance magazine has discovered something that farmers and rural homeowners in the Mid Atlantic region have known about for a century—Old Guard Mutual Insurance Company.

Old Guard, based in Lancaster, is cited in the November issue of SmartMoney Magazine as a rural insurance specialist that offers attractive rates to rural property owners.

Smart Money, a publication of Dow Jones & Co., which also publishes the Wall Street Journal, mentions Old Guard as part of an in-depth article for homeowners seeking to lower their insurance costs.

The article notes that rural residents often pay higher premiums for farm and home insurance than city dwellers because firefighters must travel farther to reach them. But the author of the article, Liz Comte Reisman, indicates that rural residents often can hold down premiums if they "work with a local insurance agent to price-shop among small mutual insurers, such as Old Guard Mutual, that specialize in insuring dairy farms and rural homes."

It mentions further that Old Guard offers a 20 percent discount if the local fire department has a tanker that can carry water to the fire scene.

Governor Honors Md. Century Farm Families

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — In a first of its kind ceremony in Maryland, Governor William Donald Schaefer honored 35 farm families from across the state whose farms have stayed in the same family for a century or more.

All of the families came to the Governor' s Reception Room in the State House in Annapolis where Governor Schaefer presented them with a special certificate from the Maryland Department of Agriculture recognizing their longevity in farming. In addition, each family received a sign to put up at their farm declaring their operation to be a "Maryland Century Farm."

"Maryland farmers are the backbone of our economy. These farms we are recognizing today have been passed down from generation to generation. This is a proud tradition of hard work that is well worth celebrating," Schaefer said.

Governor Schaefer established the Maryland Century Farm Program to honor families whose farms have been in the same family for more than 100 consecutive years, contain at least ten of the original acres and gross more than $2,500 annually from the sale of farm products.

"I congratulate all of these families for their continuing efforts to supply food and fiber to their fellow citizens," said Schaefer.

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley presided over the ceremony-that included farm families from Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Caroline, Carroll, Cecil, Dorchester, Frederick, Garrett, Harford, Kent, Montgomery, Prince George's, Queen Anne's, Washington and Wicomico Counties.

"We are still accepting applications. I urge all those who think they may qualify as a Century Farm to do so," said Riley.

Applications may be obtained from the Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, Md. 21401 or from local cooperative extension service offices.

Farm Bureau Announces Young Farmer Winner

CALLICOON, N.Y. — At their annual conference in Callicoon, New York, the 25,000-member New York Farm Bureau announced that John and Shelley Reynolds are the recipients of the Farm Bureau's 1994 Young Farmer Achievement Award.

Residents of Genesee County, the Reynoldses own 675 acres and rent an additional 200 acres of land on which they grow alfalfa, corn grain and silage, wheat and grass hay. They have a 225-head dairy operation and have been in farming for many years. They have three children, Tyler, 4; MacKenzie, 2; and a half, and Andrew, 6 mos.

During the presentation, outgoing New York Farm Bureau President Charles Wille said, "This is one of the most prestigious awards our organization gives during the course of the year. Shelley and John represent the future of this organization and agriculture in New York. Their dedication, commitment, and attitude reflect the strong values that so many members of this organization share. On behalf of New York Farm Bureau, I extend my warmest congratulations."

Over the course of the past several years, the Reynoldses have made many improvements to the farming business that was handed down to them from John's father. They have built an animal barn, installed an automatic take-off milking system in their parlor, and purchased a computer which has been used to keep track of all of their financial records.

John and Shelley have held several leadership positions in other organizations including 4-H, the Dairy Herd Improvement Association, and the Holstein Association. In addition, John is a member of the town planning board, and Shelley is an elder in her local church. Also, they have received the DHIA Herd Improvement Award, the Silver Certificate for high quality milk and the Super Milk Award.

The Reynoldses have won a 486SX computer given on behalf of New York Farm Family Insurance Agency Managers, $500 from Dodge, and an all expenses-paid trip to St. Louis in January of 1995, where they will be representing New York Farm Bureau at the National Young Farmer and Rancher competition held at the American Farm Bureau Conference, in St. Louis.

Saratoga County Farmer Wins Meet

CALLICOON, N.Y. — Steve Griffen of Schuylerville captured New York Farm Bureau's Young Farmer Discussion Meet competition, at the organization's state convention at the Villa Roma Resort Hotel in Callicoon.

A graduate of Cornell University, Griffen operates a 300-acre sod farm with his wife, Laurie, and his father, Phil. He is also a member of New York Farm Bureau's State Young Farmers Committee.

Second place honors went to Chris Kelder, an Ulster County dairy farmer.

Griffen was victorious over three other finalists to capture the discussion meet competition. During the contest, discussion meet participants work together as a group to arrive at a solution to an agriculturally-based public policy problem. The winner is the one that has the best overall delivery, knowledge, and ability to work well with his fellow "debaters."

PLAN NOW FOR 1995!

"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

When Planning Your Forage Programs, Remember That Your Main Objective Is To Store The Plant And Remove It From Storage In As Good Condition As Possible. The Upright Silo Has Never Been Equalled In Its Ability To Do This...
On Most Dairy Farms, Forage Quality Is The Single Most Improtant Factor Relating To Profit...

Poured Concrete Silos Consistently Out-Perform All Other Methods Of Storing And Preserving The Total Digestible Nutrients In Forage Crops...

BARN CLEANERS

Built to clean faster... built to last longer!

All-forged Hook-Link® chain... available on Super 300 and Super 500 barn cleaners

Extra thick steel at all wear points

IMPORTANT: Look for the "parting line" on any barn cleaner chain you buy. It shows where excess metal has been trimmed off. It is your assurance that the link was totally forged, not just punched out of a flat steel bar with grain flow in one direction only.
You want a totally-forged link because forging changes the grain on the steel, causing it to curve in unbroken flow lines around the contours of the link, giving the link greater strength to serve you longer.

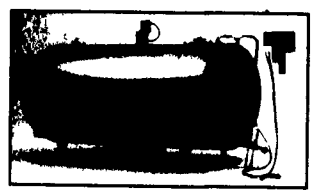
MUELLER DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Offer

Scroll-Compressor Technology

New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment may cost less, but the milk cost of cooling milk

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31,000	$28,000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12,000 lbs milk/day for 10 years	$17,550	$22,850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48,550	$50,850
Savings	$ 2,300

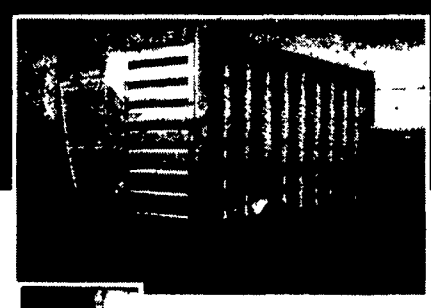
Agriculture Moves on EBY Bodies



M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- LIVESTOCK BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of heights and widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24'; landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer custom options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business- building bodies to haul it is ours.

Let EBY custom build one for you.

Invites You To Their Annual

DISCOUNT CASH & CARRY DAYS

MONDAY, DEC. 19, 1994
through
SATURDAY, JAN. 7, 1995

Seasons Greetings,

As we approach the end of another successful business year, it is time to reflect a bit on 1994. We hope your harvests have been bountiful and good health and prosperity have been yours. We are extremely grateful for the privelege of serving you throughout the past year and wish to continue to do an even better job in the future.

We will be conducting our annual Customer Appreciation Days, Dec. 19-Jan. 7. During this time prices on certain whole goods items will be significantly reduced. We are not planning an auction for this winter, but we're willing to sacrifice to "clean out the corners". Some new and demonstrated items are also included in the clearance. (Check with us for remaining inventory status). Parts specials will also be in effect. All parts orders over $150 qualify the purchaser for a free gift. Refreshments will be served.

Looking ahead, we anticipate another year of progress in '95. We pledge ourselves to professional representation of our fine product lines and good stewardship of the customer confidence which you entrusted to us.

Thanks again, and may peace and plenty be your portion during this Christmas season and in the year to come.

Sincerely,
The Staff of Binkley & Hurst Bros., Inc.

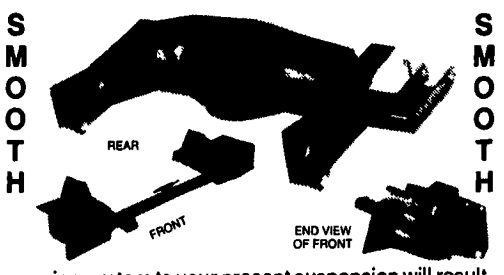
KELDERMAN AIR RIDE



Adding a Kelderman Air Ride Conversion system to your present suspension will result in a two stage suspension system. This is not to be confused with adding an Air bag mounted above the axle. Allows adding extra spring leafs to increase load rating and still maintain Air-Ride comfort.

The bolt on basic package utilizes an air stem mounted in a convenient location to add or remove air from the system

Optional 12 volt compressor allows changing air pressure setting on the go.

Currently available for front and rear suspension in Dodge Series 250 & 350 trucks. Available soon for Dodge Dakota models.

Also available for some Ford, Chevy and GMC truck models. Special orders available for most motor homes. This option will smooth out the ride on those rough-road fishing/ campin, trips.

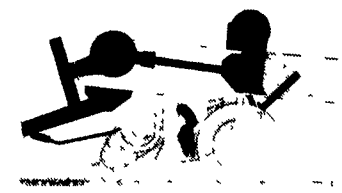
STRAIGHT TALK ABOUT FASTER BALING

Uniquely Designed Case International Balers Put Crop Quality Into Every Bale



This Baler Can Save Thousands Of Dollars With Increased Milk Production In Greatly Reduced Heat Loss Obtained With Our Direct Feed Crop Flow System · (Unbiased Testing Has Proven The Facts)

Your Best Buy In Balers is From Binkley & Hurst Bros., Inc.

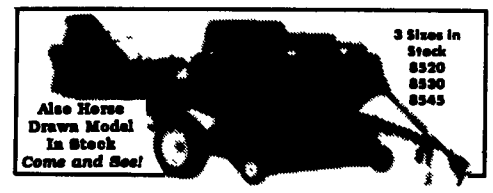
The Baler That Works!



WHY STRAIGHT IS BETTER THAN SIDEWAYS . . .

Reason #1 Transport width ranges from 7'11" to only 8'88" on our 8550 Model Conventional balers are generally 1-foot wider in transport
Reason #2 No need to widen our baler out once you're in the field or narrowing when leaving the field The conventional baler must be narrowed and widened. Reduced time and effort means money
Reason #3 Never a need to pick up bales when opening a field and cropping them on the ground — you can even leave the bale thrower on and drop the back chute Since the baler and tractor straddles the windrow, the bales dropped on the ground from previous rounds never interferes with the operation
Reason #4 Gauge wheels are mounted on both sides for better performance Not so with conventional balers
Reason #5 Our pickup is half the height of conventional belers This means less leaves are lost because less travel distance up and over the pickup is required An optional hydraulic pickup lift is even available
Reason #6 Conventional balers use high maintenance cross feeders or sweep arms to move hay to the chamber Our baler feeds hay from the pickup straight into the chamber by the use of a simple stuffer mechanism Leaves don't fall to the bottom of the chamber and later fall out the back. Due to our design, leaves are placed evenly throughout the bale — the leaves are not given time to settle to the bottom
Reason #7 Due to our design, our plunger stroke distance is 25-30% less than conventional balers Example John Deere 327, 337, 347 and 467 Models = 30" stroke, Case IH 8520 = 21 6" stroke and a high of 23" on our 8550 The result Less wear, less side to side stress force and less repairs!
Reason #8 The clearance of our needles from the ground far exceeds conventional balers due to the high position of our chamber This translates to less breakage and bending of the needles due to hitting high places in the field, etc
Reason #9 We have equal baler weight distribution on both carrying wheels for easier handling and less side pull on hills
Reason #10 The distance from the end of our bale chamber to the thrower belts is enough so that the thrower doesn't fight the bale, i e , the bale is not still wedged in the chamber when the thrower first contacts the bale
Reason #11 Our bale edges are sharp and corners are square on all types of hay - excellent when stackers are used or hay is hauled by truck.
Reason #12 Proven and reliable Deering type knotters on all center line balers

Just Arrived For A Super Year End Deal! Look At This, A Swing Frame 12-Foot Disc Mower Conditioner.

CASE IH Proven & Tested To Customer Satisfaction.

The Case International 8312 disc mower conditioner just keeps on cutting – no matter what it encounters Tangled undergrowth rodent mounds ant hills or heavy hay are no match for the heat-treated high-speed rotary discs at the heart of the 8312

A center pivot tongue lets you cut a full 12-foot swath in either direction and maneuver around obstacles Lay down a quick drying swath or fluffy windrow and depending on your crop conditioning rolls can be quickly adjusted for optimum drying

If continuous cutting with a center pivot machine is important to you stop in and see the Case International 8312

Most Mix-All owners will never buy another.

In fact, you'd probably have a hard time convincing Gehl Mix-All owners to even look at anything else. And why should they?

The Mix-All's big 21-inch wide hammermill features 66 reversible thin hammers that cut, rather than pound the feed to deliver a more consistent grind and ensure uniform mixing for a better feed conversion rate.

Gehl's self-contained hydraulic system is designed-in, not added on It provides the precision of infinitely variable in-feed attachment control to match tractor power for greater grinding capacity Plus you get fast, smooth, trouble-free unloading with greater reliability

And a wide variety of options and attachments lets you customize your Mix-All to fit any operation.

NEW AT BINKLEY & HURST BROS. FROM SUNFLOWER:

MODEL 4010/4110 SUNFLOWER COULTER RIPPER

Conservation Tillage Equipment Built SUNFLOWER Tough!

Sunflower's Coulter Ripper is for today's conservation minded farmer demanding deep tillage with minimal residue disturbance. These durable machines feature adjustable front mounted coulters on 7½ " centers. The coulter blades have an added advantage of slicing hard ground to keep clod size to a minimum. The V bar ripper design gives added trash clearance and pulls smoother than straight bar rippers. These coulter rippers are built Sunflower tough and no ballast is added to the frame increasing the structural strength. Check out Sunflower's latest edition to its growing family of quality tillage equipment at a farm show or dealer near you.

Adjustable Coutler Gangs: The 4010/4110 both feature adjustable coulter gangs that can be raised completely in clean ground. Ratchet Jack Adjustment is standard equipment. Optional Hydraulic Gang Adjustment makes on the go changes or raising the coulters completely out of the way an easy task from the tractor seat.

SUNFLOWER Series 6000 LAND FINISHER

The RIGHT combination in one-pass tillage. The New Sunflower 6000 Series Land Finisher performs three operations in one pass. It discs, cultivates, and finishes the seedbed all at once.

Working widths from 13 to 37 feet.

SUNFLOWER

5000 Series Field Cultivators range in sizes from 22' to 45' on 3-section models

They may be ordered with the Coil Tine Harrow attached or, the attachment may be added to units already in the field. Either way, the results are well worth the extra cost of a Sunflower Coil Tine Harrow Attachment.

The narrow transport width of the Sunflower 5000 Series Field Cultivator is accomplished quickly, easily and safely from the tractor seat. Wings fold over center to provide maximum stability and excellent road clearance.

TW60

The TW60 mows a full 5' swath and is available in 540 RPM and three-point lift. The TW60 requires only a 30 HP tractor (with adequate front weight) to save on operating costs. The tail-wheel beam of the TW60, 72, and 84 lift-type cutters are easily adjustable for different cutting heights.

TW72

The TW72 mows a 6' swath of material and can be operated on a tractor as small as 40 HP (with adequate front weight). The floating top linkage of the "A" Frame allows the TW cutters to follow the contour of the ground in rough conditions without damange to the hitch.

Check Your Sprayer Tune-Up Knowledge

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — We're quickly approaching Sprayer Tune-Up Week, Feb. 21-24. Are you ready to perform the pre-season maintenance and calibration that is so vital to getting the most out of your investment in crop protection chemicals?

A tune-up and calibration is time well spent, according to Dr. Stephen Pearson, technical services manager for Spraying Systems Co., maker of TeeJet® spray products and sponsor of Sprayer Tune-Up Week, now in its fifth year.

"A few hours spent now tuning up your sprayer pays big dividends;" Pearson said. "By calibrating your sprayer and ensuring accurate application rates many applicators can save as much as $5 per acre on each chemical they apply."

Sprayer Tune-Up Week is also the ideal time to do those sprayer maintenance chores that will help prevent frustrating breakdowns later, Pearson said. It's a good time to upgrade your equipment and add convenience and safety. For example, a sprayer control kit makes it easy to precisely control boom sections from the cab. Or triple nozzle bodies, which hold up to three tips, allow them to be switched in the field with just a turn of the wrist.

Before you head out to the machine shed though, check your sprayer tune-up knowledge. If the answers surprise you, see your local equipment dealer, Extension agent or vo-ag teacher for information on sprayer tune-up techniques.
